THIS? OR THIS?—After a harrowing session in the ready-to-wear departments Chief Herbert Jenkins asks all would-be policewomen to decide which of these prospective uniforms they prefer. The battle jacket and beret combination is modeled by Mary Garner, left, and Betty Sue Huff stops traffic in the longish jacket-regulation cap combo. Brass furnished by police department. The Chief went shopping for 40 women.

SUBJECT TO GIRLS' APPROVAL, THAT IS

Chief Picks Uniform for Policewomen

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

Atlanta's police chief went shopping for clothes for 40 women yesterday.

And, for him, the expedition combined all the jollier features of being end-man in a police line-up, being walloped with an old-fashioned rubber hose and being grilled for eight hours by the homicide squad.

'Twas uniforms for his new school traffic policewomen Chief Herbert Jenkins was seeking. And the chief got—oh, no, it couldn't have been a going-over by the old Capone mob. No-o-o. None of those boys are left. It merely LOOKED that way.

Chief Jenkins and husky Sgt. John T. Marler, Jr., head of the new woman's traffic division, entered a downtown department store early in the afternoon looking bright-eyed and brisk. Their eyes, lighting on two svelte young things who were to model whatever they chose as the prospective uniform, gleamed like the brass on their sharp blue serge.

They swaggered a little, as becomes a smartly turned out officer, and they even lingered a moment and looked wistfully at brief and gaudy beach wear.

That was 3 p. m.

At 5 p. m. they limped from the store. Their collars were wilted. Their badges set a little crookedly on their coats. Their faces were pale. Their eyes were glazed and they murmured brokenly as they were led away: "Flap pockets . . . patch pockets . . . square collars . . . round collars . . . Winter weight . . . Spring weight . . . pencil skirt . . . gores,, gores, gores . . . aw, no, let me rest!"

The Chief and Sgt. Marler had merely asked—and got—the help of four women advisers in selecting uniforms for the part-time women officers who are to begin traffic work in about three wee'.s.

It's possible the Chief and Sgt. Marler got more help than they wanted. Models Mary Garner and Betty Sue Huff donned two different suits—one a straight skirt with an Eisenhower jacket and the other a straight skirt with a longish coat.

"Fine," said the chief.

"Er—fine!" said Sgt. Marler. "You ought to stop traffic in that!"

"Which one?" demanded the four carping female voices.

"Oh, I don't know," said the chief, "they're both very nice."

"Well, which is the one you want?" nagged the women.

"Oh, I don't know," said the chief. "I thought it ought to be navy blue and nice looking. I thought maybe a white Sam Browne belt to match the white gloves. And regulation hat. . . ."

"Oh, no-o!" shrieked the women. "Have you ever seen a woman in a Sam Browne belt? "Regulation hat?" yelped a model. "What would you do with your bangs?"

The chief confessed he had never contemplated a traffic officer with bangs.

The four advisers, the chief's secretary; a department store expert and a newspaper reporter and fashion photographer, haggled over the quality of material, the stitching on the cuffs and three buttons or four.

The chief shifted his weight from one foot to another and cleared his throat. "There's the matter of money," he said timidly. "The women are going to buy their own uniforms and they ought to be—er inexpensive."

"Oh, yes!" breathed the women advisers happily, like bird dogs scenting quail. "Bargains, of course. Now I always find that it pays to look in the basement before you decide."

"How about the fourth floor?" put in another.

They were off for the escalators, the Chief and Sgt. Marler unhappily in tow.

Two hours later the uniforms agreed upon, subject to the approval of the 40 new women officers, consisted of a navy blue suit, white shirt, black tie and regulation hat.

Total cost: Slightly under $20, depending upon whether or not you can wear your husband's shirt and tie.

Jap Reds Boot Old Cominform Supporter Out

TOKYO—(AP)—Japan's Communists kicked out of the party yesterday a prominent and veteran member who supports the Cominform attack against Red Leader Sanzo Nozaka.

Ko Nakanishi, Communist member of the Parliament's House of Councillors, was read out of the party at Communist headquarters.

He told Japanese reporters later he would "make an effort outside the party to make the Japanese party a party based on Marxism."

Nakanishi himself had been called in by the party high command earlier in the day.

Pair Seized On Drug Count

Two Atlanta Negro women were being held today on $1,000 commitment bonds, after Federal Narcotics Agents seized the "makings" of between 75 and 100 marihuana cigarettes in their room in a Southeast boarding house.

The pair is listed as Alice Tyler, 28, and Bonita Evans, 21, both of 179 Mildred St., S. W.

Federal agents are seeking a man said to be "the central figure" in an alleged scheme to peddle marihuana to Atlanta addicts.

U. S. Tanks, Cars Load for Formosa At Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Ninety freight carloads of tanks and armored cars en route to the Chinese Nationalists at Formosa were loaded aboard a Turkish freighter at Philadelphia yesterday.

Loading of the U. S. Army equipment was begun at a Port Richmond pier in northeastern Philadelphia. The ship which will carry the tanks and cars is the S. S. Mardin, a freighter owned by Marta T. A. S., of Istanbul, Turkey.

A bill of lading on one of the flatcars being loaded aboard the ship said:

"The Chinese government is paying for packing, handling and transportation direct, and not from funds allotted to the Department of Defense."

"Markings peculiar to the Army Armored Command, except that of the registration number, will be removed from the vehicles."

Name of the actual purchaser was not disclosed.

The bill of lading listed the price of the tanks at $1,000 each. Similar tanks, without weapons, cost about $58,000 to build during the war.

At Lima, Ohio, Lt. Col. R. B. Fontaine, Commander of the Lima Ordnance Depot, disclosed the equipment was provided by that depot. He said loading of the armored vehicles aboard Reading Company trains was completed last week.

Capt. Muri Yilmas, of the Mardin, told newsmen he was taking a shipment of sulphite to Formosa. That's all he disclosed.

Sources familiar with the ship's route said the tanks and armored cars also were bound for Formosa. They declined to permit publication of their identity.

In Washington, Sen. Connally, Democrat, Texas, quoted Sec. of State Acheson as telling Senators the United States has an "impregnable" Pacific defense line without Formosa. But two of Connolly's colleagues said they did not understand Acheson that way.

The other two members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who asked not to be quoted by name, said Acheson testified he was not equipped to pass upon military strategy.

They said he told them any evaluation of the military situation would have to come from the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

President Truman has ruled in favor of a foreign policy hands-off attitude for Formosa if the island is attacked by Chinese Reds.

Probability Of Milk Price Cut Is Seen

By CLARK HOWELL, JR.

Probability of a cut in the price of milk distributors is seen as the State Milk Control Board meets today to take action on a 10 to 12 percent milk surplus in Georgia.

At a meeting yesterday of approximately 400 representatives of the State dairy industry at the State Capitol, it was reported that the distributors at present had a substantial surplus of milk with the prospects of this surplus increasing during the next few months.

Milk distributors who spoke at the meeting said they would not be able to continue using the full amount of milk now being shipped to them. Several pointed out that they were not economically able to use the surplus milk at the present cost of $6.06 per hundredweight in such by-products as ice cream and cottage cheese.

They are asking for price relief on the surplus milk in order, they said, "to be able to compete on the open market with dairy by-products producers using 'B' grade milk and powders."

Should the Milk Board reduce the price to the consumer and should such an order sell more milk, the present surplus would automatically be reduced. Members of the Board have been considering ordering a reduction to the consumer for some time.

Many dairymen protested the distributors' line of argument, saying the distributors have brought the problem on themselves by encouraging dairymen to produce more and more milk.

"The distributors have encouraged us to produce more milk and now that we have, they are shifting burden of solving the surplus problem to us," said Donald Stephenson, Covington dairyman.

A. L. "Pat" Crowe, of Creatwood Farm Dairy, at Smyrna, countered by saying there is no law in the land which requires any man to buy something which he doesn't need.

The State Milk Board and is members were criticized by several spokesmen. One dairyman, Cecil Perkerson, of Meriwether County, recommended that the two members of the Board not present at the meeting be fired unless they were sick.

Present were C. G. Duncan, director; Mrs. Henry Russell, of Thomasville, and W. B. Wallis, Jr., of Eatonton. Those absent were the Rev. Augustus Ernest, of Monticello, and George Sancken, of Augusta.

Five Charged With Larceny

Five men were indicted yesterday by the Fulton County Grand Jury on felony charges of larceny from the house in connection with recent thefts from the East Point warehouse of the State Highway Department.

W. A. Allgood, of Apt. 42, 267 Fraser St., S.E., was named in all four indictments. Clarence T. Dewberry, of 1053 West Washington Ave., East Point, was named in two of the indictments. Lawson Mobley, operator of a barbecue stand on Virginia Ave., in Hapeville, was named defendant in one indictment. Bonds on these three men were set at $5,000 each.

Fred Brock, of Rt. 1, College Park, and W. B. Black, of Fairburn, were named in one indictment each. Bonds were set at $1,000.

Judge Townsend Sued For $50,000 by Lynch

By FRANK MAJORS

Judge J. M. C. (Red) Townsend, of the Georgia Court of Appeals, has been named defendant in a $50,000 slander suit filed in Fulton County Superior Court by Dade County Sheriff John W. Lynch.

Sheriff Lynch in his suit contends that Judge Townsend in an April 15, 1949, speech before the Civitan Club in Chattanooga, Tenn., publicly uttered "false, scandalous, malicious and defamatory words" to the effect that Sheriff Lynch conspired with members of the Klu Klux Klan in Dade County to violate the civil rights of seven Negroes.

The petition sets forth that by reason of the alleged misconduct imputed to Sheriff Lynch by Judge Townsend that citizens and neighbors, not knowing his innocence, have "withdrawn their confidence from the petitioner, wholly refusing, and still refusing, to deal and have any transaction, acquaintance and discourse with him" in his capacity of Sheriff or as a private citizen.

The suit, filed through Atty. Bobby Lee Cook, of Summerville, states that Judge Townsend's speech "has greatly injured" his good name, reputation, fame and credit, and "brought him into public scandal, infamy and contempt with any and all his neighbors and with good and worthy citizens of the State and elsewhere."

The suit quotes Judge Townsend as having allegedly said of Sheriff Lynch that "he is a coward, a liar, and a disgrace to the democratic form of government, and that Sheriff Bill Lynch did conspire explicitly and deliberately with certain members of the Ku Klux Klan of Dade County, Georgia, to deprive said Negroes of their civil rights by agreeing with the Ku Klux Klan to intercept him and the Negroes at a certain point in Dade County, Georgia, for the purpose of flogging them."

Sheriff Lynch was one of 10 defendants named recently in the Civil Rights trial before a Federal judge in Rome. The Judge declared it a mistrial. Cook, his attorney in the slander suit, is Chattooga County Representative in the Georgia Legislature.

Bandits Slug, Rob Atlanta Groceryman

Stocking-Masked Pair, Armed With Shotgun, Grabs $225

By KEELER McCARTNEY

Silk stocking bandits armed with a sawed-off shotgun last night slugged a West End grocery store operator and escaped with $225 as robbery squad detectives redoubled efforts to identify the terror-spreading pair.

Mrs. T. O. Powell said she was behind the counter in the Powell Grocery Store at 900 Oglethorpe Ave., S. W., when a short man stepped inside the door holding a sawed-off shotgun. Powell, in the rear of the store, started up front to find what the trouble was.

"Get behind the counter or I'll shoot the woman," the bandit snapped.

Unable to reach his gun, Powell said he seized a chair to attack the bandit when a taller second man appeared. He struck Powell on the nose with his fist, breaking his glasses.

The tall robber took his wallet containing $200 while the shorter man scooped up $25 from the cash register, Powell related. He said the short man wore a broad-brimmed tan hat, a silk stocking stretched over his face and a red plaid shirt.

His taller confederate also wore a silk stocking pulled over his face and no hat, Powell told Det. Lt. Glyn Cowan and Det. George Christian.

Various reports since before Christmas have identified the two as a white man and a Negro and as a light-complexioned white man and a dark-complexioned white man.

Robberies laid to the two extend over Clayton County, Atlanta and East Point. Detectives pointed out they always wear silk stockings pulled down over their faces and carry a shotgun.

Cloudy, Cooler Forecast Today

Atlantans will find the skies partly cloudy and the air cooler all day today, the man says, but better weather is coming.

Tomorrow, the official forecast says, is due to bring increasing cloudiness but a higher temperature reading. And no rain is in sight after this morning.

COOLER

High reading is due to be 54 after a base reading of 48 was reached early this morning. Tomorrow's temperatures are expected to go from 34 to 60. The readings yesterday ranged from a low of 49 to a mid-afternoon high of 67.

Guided Missiles Test Slated for Alaska

PORT HUENEME, Cal.—(INS) The U. S. Navy will test guided missiles "under adverse conditions" in the Gulf of Alaska this month. This was disclosed with the announcement the Navy's floating test station, the USS Norton Sound, left Port Hueneme yesterday for Northern waters.

Court-Test Time Sought in Early 1950 Qualifying

By M. L. ST. JOHN

A legislative attempt will be made to move up the deadline for qualifying gubernatorial candidates in order to permit court tests of their eligibility, The Constitution learned last night, after Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook held that both Gov. Talmadge and former Gov. Arnall are eligible to seek the governorship this year.

Simultaneously, Judge J. M. C. (Red) Townsend, of the Court of Appeals, urged that there be no court tests and predicted that either he or Arnall or someone else would defeat Talmadge this year.

In the fast moving events following announcement of the Law Department's opinion, State Democratic Chairman James Peters, of Manchester, threw the 1950 gubernatorial primary "wide open." He invited Arnall, Former Acting Gov. Thompson, Gov. Talmadge, or "any other Democrats who may desire" to qualify. One of the "succession laws" of 1947 gave the Executive Committee the right to pass finally upon the eligibility of all candidates.

Gov. Talmadge will ask the Legislature next week to abolish the State's "nuisance taxes." The Governor outlines his plans on today's editorial page, where he is guest columnist for Editor Ralph McGill, who is on vacation.

Speculation was hot last night as to whether Arnall would announce for Governor when he returns to Atlanta this week-end from California, and also whether court suits are inevitable.

Some Arnall supporters believed Cook's opinion set the stage for an Arnall-Talmadge fight this year. Some Talmadge leaders believed the opinion renewed the Governor's hold on the Legislature and dispelled probability of court suits.

A Legislator said the time element between qualifying time and the primary almost makes court tests impossible now. Usually 60 days is allowed. He said he would introduce a bill next week to require the Democratic Executive Committee to provide more time between qualifying deadline and the primary election—then court tests could be made on the eligibility of the candidates before they are nominated.

Some cited National Committeeman Robert Elliott's opinion that Cook's ruling "is not binding on anyone," and they predicted that "there are enough persons who dislike both Talmadge and Arnall to make court tests of the eligibility of both of them if they are candidates." Such tests apparently would have to be made after candidates qualify.

Gov. Talmadge made a surprise, and secret, request for Cook's opinion on his eligibility Monday,

Hickory Flat N. Georgia Title Winner

Two outstanding farm communities in the broiler-producing area of the rolling foothills of Cherokee County today wore crowns as leaders in community improvement.

Hickory Flat Community was named first prize winner in the regular contest involving 135 communities of North Georgia for 1949, sponsored by the Farmers' Club of Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

Avery Community, 1948 winner, took top honors in a special Sweepstakes contest conducted along with the 1949 North Georgia Farm Community Improvement Contest.

Fred L. Cannon, 1949 President of the Farmers' Club, presented awards at a banquet in the Biltmore Hotel last night. To Hickory Flat went a cash prize of $1,000. A second-place award of $750 went to Davis Academy Community, of Banks County. Talmo Community, of Jackson County, took third prize of $500.

Other top prize winners: Mountain View Community, Cobb County, fourth, $300; Smyrna Community, Rockdale County, fifth, $200; Hurst Community, Fannin County, sixth, $150; Murrayville Community, Hall County, seventh, $125; Liberty Community, Dawson County, eighth, $100; Pleasant View Community, Haralson County, ninth, $75.

Each of the three top communities also received a handsomely engraved certificate of award.

Prizes of $50 each went to these communities as county winners: Almon, Newton County; Bethlehem, Barrow County; Bill Arp Community, Douglas County; Cagle, Pickens County; Fairview, Habersham County; Flippen, Henry County; Gratis, Walton County; Henry Grady, Gilmer County; Iron Springs, Butts County; Moreland, Coweta County; Mt. View-Garretts Chapel, Carroll County; Nacoochee, and Southee Valley, White County; Owl Town, Union County; Rabun Gap, Rabun County; Redan, DeKalb County; Riverdale, Clayton County; South Fairburn, Fulton County; Taylorsville, Bartow County; Tom's Creek, Stephens County; Union, Paulding County; Wahoo, Lumpkin County; Young Harris, Towns County.

In the Sweepstakes, communities that had previously won first prize competed separately, since they were not eligible again to receive the grand prize. Avery won $300 as special prize in this contest.

Kenneth Treanor, Georgia Extension Service, Chairman of the judging committee, cited some outstanding developments in the various communities at the banquet last night. A feature of the program was a singing and dancing revue, "Stars of Tomorrow," produced by R. M. Avery, assisted by Miss Katherine Boswell.

Howard See, new President of the Farmers Club, cited the intangible benefits of the contests, urged greater participation in the 1950 affair, which began Nov. 1, 1949 and will close Oct. 31, 1950. Deadline for farm communities to enter is Jan. 31.

British Election Set for Feb. 23

LONDON — (UP) — General elections will be held in Great Britain on Feb. 23, the Prime Minister's office announced last night.

The parliament elected in July, 1945, when a Socialist landslide swept Winston Churchill's Conservatives out of the government, will be dissolved formally Feb. 3.

Nomination day will be Feb. 13, and the new parliament will be summoned to meet March 1.

2 Gunmen, Believed Haralson Fugitives, Hunted in N. C. After Battle With Police

Two heavily armed desperados believed to have terrorized the Haralson County countryside recently, are being hunted in North Carolina's Great Smoky Mountains following a gun battle with dozens of highway patrolmen and deputies.

The bandit team, Bremen Police Chief E. B. Gray thinks, is "fresh" from a series of robberies in Bremen, Waco, Buchanan and other Haralson County points. The two were escaping with the loot from these robberies, according to Chief Gray's theory, when jumped by North Carolina officers near North Wilkesboro.

Their Mercury automobile bore a 1949 Georgia license plate D-87161, which Chief Gray says apparently was stolen from a resident of Waco, scene of a recent robbery.

The North Carolina search for the bandits got under way when Ptl. T. E. Cooke, of North Wilkesboro, chased a speeding car.

When Cooke drew nearer, the two stopped their car, set fire to it and fled into the woods. A quantity of goods, fitting the description of the missing items in Haralson County, was found in the car.

Cooke radioed for assistance and 20 patrol cars answered. Also, the area and local officers joined in the search. Road blocks were set up, bloodhounds brought to the scene.

Later, Ptl. R. B. Parker, of Boone, came upon the two men in a farm yard, officers said. The two were armed, one with a rifle and the other with a shotgun.

As Parker approached, the two opened fire and Parker replied with his service pistol. The two fled into the woods again.

Parker said he found blood at the scene and believed he had wounded one or both of the men.

Chief Gray said the most recent robbery in Haralson County occurred in the past week when a grocery-radio shop was entered. A quantity of goods, including a radio and cigarettes, was stolen.

Two cases of cigarettes bearing Georgia tax stamps were among the loot found in the bandits' car when it was abandoned in North Carolina, officers said.

TANKS FOR FORMOSA—Tanks en route to the Chinese Nationalists at Formosa are loaded aboard the Turkish freighter S. S. Mardin at a pier in northeastern Philadelphia.

Rep. Vinson Orders Probe Of Defense

WASHINGTON— (UP) — Chairman Carl Vinson, of the House Armed Services Committee, has ordered a full inquiry into "the true state" of the national defense.

The Georgia Democrat said yesterday the Committee would start the inquiry as soon as it completed action on one or two pressing legislative issues, such as extension of the draft law and continuation of the Government's synthetic rubber program.

Vinson disclosed plans for the defense investigation after members reported a formal "not guilty" verdict in the Committee's inquiry last Spring into charges against the Air Force in connection with procurement and performance of its B-36 superbombers.

The Committee approved, 25 to 0, a report rejecting charges that the six-engine craft was not up to Air Force claims and political favoritism figured in the decision to buy it.

Rep. W. Sterling Cole, Republican, New York, voted present. He said he did not attend the B-36 hearings and was not qualified to pass judgment.

Vinson shut off attempted discussion of a pending report on a later Committee investigation into the Navy's case against unification. He said he hoped to offer to the Committee within two or three weeks a "constructive" report on which most members can agree.

In announcing plans for the new investigation, Vinson did not explain why he thought a Congressional study of national defense was needed at this time.

He said only the Committee was engaged in a continuing effort to keep Congress abreast of its constitutional duty for the defense of the country.

Vinson said the Committee wanted to know "all about our national defense—how many ships and planes and men we have and how ready we are to defend ourselves in an emergency."

He said as much of the investigation as possible would be held in public.

Unification Row Revived

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The Senate Armed Services Committee yesterday delayed action on the nomination of Adm. Forrest P. Sherman as chief of naval operations and moved toward a possible new inquiry of the unification row.

At the request of Sen. Knowland, Republican, California, the committee voted to postpone a vote on Sherman's confirmation until Thursday of next week.

Knowland said he requested the delay so he could gather "additional information" on Sherman's qualifications to succeed Adm. Louis Denfeld in the high Navy post.

Taylor Loses Court Appeal In Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — (AP) — The Alabama Court of Appeals has upheld the disorderly conduct conviction of Sen. Glen Taylor, Democrat, Idaho, in Birmingham in 1948 and threw out his attack on the city's racial segregation ordinance.

All three judges on the court yesterday agreed with the opinion written by Presiding Judge Charles R. Bricken.

Taylor, then a candidate for Vice President on the ticket with Henry Wallace, was fined $50 and sentenced to jail for 180 days after trying to enter a door reserved for Negroes at a meeting in Birmingham May 1, 1948.

The Senator was scheduled to speak at a meeting of the Southern Negro Youth Congress held in a Negro church.

He based his defense on the grounds that Birmingham's segregation law which provides separate entrances for whites and Negroes, is unconstitutional. Both Police Court Judge Oliver Hall and later, Circuit Judge George Lewis Bailes ruled the racial question was not involved.

Russian Walks Out On UN

Special to The Constitution

LAKE SUCCESS—Soviet Foreign Minister Jacobs Malik walked out of the United Nations Security Council yesterday afternoon when it rejected his demand for immediate expulsion of the Nationalist Chinese delegate, Dr. T. F. Tsiang, who is president of the Council for January.

UNITED NATIONS

Malik followed a precedent established in 1946 by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who walked out when the Council took up the question of Russian troops in Iran.

Dr. Tsiang was upheld by a vote of 8 to 2, with India abstaining, when he ruled that a formal Russian resolution demanding his expulsion would have to be translated, circulated and considered at a subsequent meeting. Only Yugoslavia, whose recognition of the Chinese Reds has been contemptuously ignored by them, voted with the Soviet Union, which is waging a violent cold war against Yugoslav dictator Tito.

Malik obtained recognition on a point of order immediately after Dr. Tsiang had convened the Council's first meeting of the year. He read a communication from Chou En-Lai, Foreign Minister of the Chinese Communist government in Peiping, charging that the delegate of "the Chinese Kuomintang reactionary remnant clique" has no right to represent China and demanding his expulsion. Repeatedly referring to Tsiang as "this person," Malik insisted that he be excluded immediately and concluded with the submission of his resolution.

Dr. Tsiang, a moon-faced, solemn little man, presided with the quiet dignity that distinguishes his ancient people. He said he had replied to a Soviet attack on his credentials on Dec. 29 and would make no further reply. Then, as President of the Council, he ruled that Malik's resolution would take the usual course.

Home Town Honors Won By Nicholls

By CARLTON THOMAS
Constitution Staff Writer

NICHOLLS — Nicholls is richer by $500 and has a bronze plaque to show them a winner in the Georgia Power Company's champion home town contest. Nicholls is looking to the future, this town of approximately 700 persons which won third place in the Power Company's contest and celebrated the occasion with a banquet last night in the Nicholls High School gymnasium.

This Coffee County town was entered in the less-than-1,000-persons group. They were praised by Power Company officials for the splendid progress their town showed during the past year and presented with a $500 check and plaque.

"We are proud to be here to honor the good people of Nicholls," C. A. Collier, Power Company Vice President, said. "As long as we have progress in these United States by free-thinking, free-acting pepole like you in Nicholls we have nothing to fear from any ism."

A feature of the program was a series of spirituals by a group of Nicholls' Negro citizens.

"Our Negro folks have done an outstanding job in helping us to win the prize," C. A. Anderson, Chairman of the Nicholls campaign, said. "We never asked them to do a single job that wasn't more than well done. They cooperated and worked in every way. They deserve a lot of credit in our victory."

C. C. Perry acted as master of ceremonies, and a community sing was led by J. F. Mitchell, the Rev. A. L. White gave the invocation, and a musical program was rendered by Mrs. W. M. Denton, Patsy Meeks and J. A. Wren. Ralph Gresham, Georgia Power Company manager at Alma, introduced out-of-town guests. E. M. Clapp, Power Company Vice President, Columbus, gave a "Salute to Nicholls" with a response by the Rev. C. F. Thomas, of Nicholls. In summing up the year-long program, Anderson said it was all accomplished through a series of town hall meetings.

"Whenever we had a problem or a project, we called a meeting at one of our schools and one at the Negro school. We thrashed out our differences, if any existed, and then went to work. And we have only started; we will be in the contest next year. Last year we won honorable mention. This year we moved to third place. Next year will we plan to move higher."

Why the March of Dimes?—a Visit To Warm Springs Will Give Answer

By KATHERINE BARNWELL
Constitution Staff Writer

WARM SPRINGS—Why give to the March of Dimes?

A winsome, wide-eyed little girl from Lithonia, stricken with polio last Summer, is proudly learning to walk again.

Why give to the March of Dimes?

A pretty, 18-year-old girl with no muscular control over her hands is learning to write with a pencil in her mouth.

Why give to the March of Dimes

A husky, teen-aged boy, his body twisted because of the mysterious polio virus, soon will undergo surgery that will make him more like other boys.

These and 163 other patients at the Warm Springs Foundation were "at home" to press representatives from all over Georgia yesterday to show "why" the March of Dimes should be supported. And if there were any skeptics in the group at sunrise, there were none at day's end!

One impressed visitor put it this way:

"If everybody could see these patients for just one day, they wouldn't have to ASK for funds to fight polio."

Most of the patients here receive financial assistance from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which, of course, also helps other polio victims all over the country. About 900 Georgia patients from 135 counties were assisted last year.

One of these, pretty, 14-year-old June Lawhorne, a native of Warm Springs, spoke for them all:

"The March of Dimes is the most wonderful thing in the world!"

June, who was stricken Nov. 2, is just beginning to use her legs a little. She is confident she will be walking in another three months.

Physical therapists demonstrated methods of treatment—in warm water pools, under infra-ray heat lamps, in moist air cabinets, on floor mattresses, between parallel bars, up and down steps.

Erna Hrunsbattir, 21-year-old housewife, from Iceland, joined the Warm Springs patients yesterday. Stricken with polio in 1948, she came here because she considers it "the best place."

Fourteen patients from the Atlanta area are now under treatment here. They include James Dobbs, James Hammon, Virginia Neely, Henry Poetter, Bobby Sorenson, William Sumney, Marc D. Walraven and Mrs. J. B. Willingham, all of Atlanta; Henry Callaham, Decatur; Linda George and Paul Skinner, Lithonia; Larry Holsomback, East Point; Christine Parker, College Park, and Calvin Jenkins, Avondale Estates.

Kroger Party Off to Havana

More than 100 Kroger grocers took a quick blink at Atlanta late last night as they rolled toward an all-expense-paid vacation in Havana.

Aboard the special train were Mr. and Mrs. H. W. McGill, of 848 N. Highland Ave. Mr. McGill, manager of the Kroger Store in Buckhead, was the winner in the Fall Sales Contest for Kroger Stores in the Atlanta area. Other passengers were winners from all over the country.

The winners were en route from Cincinnati where they visited Kroger plants and were entertained by President Joseph Hall before leaving on their 10-day vacation.

The special was met by W. W. Deadwiler and Mrs. George Payne, of the Atlanta division of the grocery system.

Orchids were presented to Mrs. McGill, and all ladies on the train received carnations as tokens from Atlanta Kroger Stores.

The group will go down the East Florida coast, taking in Jacksonville, Daytona Beach and Miami before an overnight cruise to Havana.

Civil Service Jobs Open Jan. 30-Feb. 10

Applications for U. S. Civil Service positions of office machine operators and dental officers will be accepted through, respectively, Jan. 30 and Feb. 10, the Fifth Region of the Civil Service Commission announces.

Office machine operators' posts, open in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina and Tennessee, pay from $2,800 to $3,825 a year. Dental officer jobs are also available in those States and the entrance salary range is $4,600 to $6,400 a year.

Further information and application forms may be obtained from the Information Office, Fifth U. S. Civil Service Region, 409 New Post Office Building, Atlanta 3.

GOVERNORSHIP

when Cook admittedly was about ready to decline to grant an unofficial opinion to Arnall. Cook's reply to Talmadge gave it the added weight of an official opinion.

The opinion that both Talmadge and Arnall could run followed the forecast published in yesterday's Constitution that Cook would render such a decision.

The Attorney General held that a person must qualify to serve a full four-year term as Governor before he is ineligible to seek re-election. Cook said that Herman Talmadge was filling a vacancy, and was therefore not disqualified from running for a full term.

Cook also held that the five days Arnall held over into the present term could not be counted against him, since Arnall was elected only for four years. So Arnall is eligible to run this year.

At Los Angeles, Arnall said: "If that's the law, I have no comment. If anyone asks if I plan to run for Governor, tell them I'll talk about that when I get back to Atlanta."

Talmadge said: "I believe the Attorney General has correctly interpreted the Constitution in handing down his opinion." (While he came near announcing his candidacy last week, Talmadge yesterday declined to say whether he plans to run for Governor.)

A potential gubernatorial candidate, Cook told newsmen: "This opinion is based on my conception of the law. It does not take into consideration my personal plans. I have no other comment to make." He did express the hope that his opinion would prevent another "two-Governor" squabble, however.

Former Acting Gov. Thompson, who plans to run for Governor this year, said he was "delighted with the Attorney General's ruling," adding "I hoped it would be that way."

Cook flatly reversed his unofficial opinion handed newsmen in 1948 in which he said the winner of that year's gubernatorial race would be ineligible to run this year.

He said he had based his unofficial remarks upon an earlier official opinion which was set aside by the courts. He referred to an opinion that Acting Gov. Thompson could let road contracts until the end of the term because he wasn't serving a "term of office as Governor." Judge Charlie Worrills, then a Superior Court judge and now on the Court of Appeals, reversed Cook on this.

Cook also cited a recent Supreme Court decision which said that the burden lay in proving the ineligibility of an officeholder instead of proving the eligibility of him. Cook said there must be found in the Constitution language clearly declaring Talmadge ineligible under the circumstances in order to deprive him of the right to serve and the right of the people to elect him for a full Constitutional four-year term if they so desire.

The framers of the Constitution contemplated that a Governor would serve a full four-year term before being ineligible to seek re-election, Cook stated. They did not plan to bar anyone filling a vacancy, he added.

The Constitution says a Governor shall serve four years, and shall be prevented from another term until four years have elapsed from the conclusion of his term. If there was any ambiguity in the new Constitution of 1945, Cook said it could be settled by looking to the Constitution of 1877, which also says a Governor shall not be eligible for re-election for the next succeeding four-year term after he has qualified for a four-year term.

The "unexpired term" which Talmadge now is serving is not such a term as is contemplated by the Constitution, Cook asserted.

Commenting on the opinion, Judge Townsend said he found Cook's reasoning sound. "If that's not the law, it ought to be. I favor letting the people determine whom they want for Governor. The people are tired of Herman Talmadge and will defeat him if he offers for re-election."

State Revenue Commissioner Charlie Redwine, the only person definitely banned from running for Governor, commented: "This opinion has scuttled the Talmadge opposition. Herman Talmadge is stronger today than ever before in his life." (A new State law prohibits a Revenue Commissioner from running for public office within 12 months after the expiration of his term).

LSU Payoff Smoked Out Purity Boys

You can always depend upon Ol' Red Heard and LSU to provide some fireworks.

The frank and honest announcement from Baton Rouge Monday that LSU players had been given $250 each as "expenses" for their Sugar Bowl effort immediately set off a raft of comment.

LSU's action, of course, was in direct violation of the NCAA sanity code. And since we have a NCAA meeting right in our laps, everybody started wondering what that astute body would do about the announcement.

Of course, the word "expenses" is a misnomer, since a man could travel from Baton Rouge to New Orleans and back by bus for a month and not spend $250. The money actually was a bonus to the kids for their missing Christmas holidays and for extra practice.

And, frankly, I don't see how even the NCAA could honestly deny their right to it.

Surprise Reaction Anyway, the first reaction to LSU's frankness was one of horror, especially here in the Southeastern Conference.

Everybody knew such things have been done in the past, but discretely weren't mentioned—in the approved NCAA manner. LSU's action was immediately termed just another argument for the "purist" boys of the Big Ten and Ivy Leagues to use against the Southeast.

And, it was pointed out, it came at a time when the Southeastern, Southwest and Southern Conferences were about to sponsor a three-meals-a-day training table proposal at the NCAA meeting.

Well, this looked to be true for a while. But the wire services started checking and now it has an entirely different aroma.

It now seems as if Ol' LSU has finally smoked out some of the other college people of the country and forced them to tell the truth.

The Payoff Let's see. Oklahoma admitted taking their players and their wives on a trip to Havana and said it saw nothing wrong with it.

Neither do I. What's the difference between the actions of Oklahoma and LSU?

North Carolina said it gave its players enough to take their wives or a parent to the Cotton Bowl.

What's the difference?

Even Ohio State admitted giving its boys $35 "expenses" to the Rose Bowl.

What's the difference there—except $215?

Some of the rest were a bit more naive about it. But they aren't fooling anybody. It's a safe assumption that every player who participated in a bowl game on Jan. 2 received some sort of compensation, whether it was called "expense" or "entertainment" or anything else.

Evokes Humor The situation is not without humor. Somebody immediately cracked that the Tigers were overpaid, judging from the Sugar Bowl score, but added the SEC might have an easier time recruiting against the Big Ten, now that salaries have been announced.

And a SEC coach said, "Boy, I'm glad I'm not going to have any bowl teams because our kids never got anything like that."

What he meant, of course, was that future bowl players are likely to set up LSU's $250 as a criterion.

Anyway, the NCAA, which has headaches enough with the problem of such "unreconstructed" teams as Virginia, VMI and The Citadel, really has a muddle on its hands now.

There is nothing in the sanity code which provides for the giving of players "expenses" for bowl games. But everybody is doing it and what can the NCAA do about it?

It may mean more open opposition to the code at the meeting this week and more support for Virginia and the other schools which face expulsion as "noncomformists."

Support Virginia Certainly, there are many schools who cannot—and will not—vote to expel Virginia. Among them are the members of the Southeastern Conference.

I doubt if a single school in our league will cast a ballot against the "outlaws" when voting time comes around Saturday. They couldn't and still live with their past reputations and records of being openly honest themselves.

But neither do I have any doubts that Virginia and the others will be kicked out of the NCAA. There will be enough votes—two-thirds of those present—for that.

My guess is it will end right there and have little effect on the schools involved. I seriously doubt if the NCAA will go so far as to prohibit any of its members from scheduling the schools expelled, although this would seem to be the only course of action.

However, the alleged "noncompliers" have one thing in their favor—honesty. And it's mighty hard for folks who know deep in their own hearts right from wrong to condemn anybody for being honest.

Hogan, Snead Tie for L. A. Title With 280s

Sammy Shoots 66 Last Day

By BOB MEYERS

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Little Ben Hogan almost hit the jackpot in his dramatic comeback to golf yesterday but Sam Snead came through with a spectacular putt on the eighteenth green and tied for top honors in the $15,000 Los Angeles Open.

In a day filled with climax after climax, and excitement built upon excitement that burst into a frenzy at the hectic finale, these two rivals for golf fame, Hogan and Snead, wound up the 72-hole grind with identical scores of 280.

They'll meet today in the third playoff in the history of this 24-year-old Winter classic, but nothing can surpass the events of this final 18 holes of surprise and mounting tension.

In fact, it may prove an anti-climax.

Hogan was frank to admit: "I'm damned tired. I wish I didn't have to play tomorrow. Rather than that, I wish he'd won the tournament today."

Hogan finished the round first, shooting his third successive 69 in as many rounds. He calmly posted his 280 for the tournament he had won three times previously. He looked like the winner.

But came a rumble from the greens and fairways far down the course at picturesque Riviera Country Club. Sam Snead was hot. He was one under par 35 at the turn into the drive for home. He birdied the twelfth and thirteenth.

He passed the fourteenth and he needed two birdies and two pars to tie Hogan.

The West Virginia drawler got his par on the next two holes, and banged his third shot high and straight, 10 feet from the pin on the seventeenth.

Snead turned to his threesome partner, Jack Burke, and cracked: "We gotta knock a couple of these in to get the little man."

The gallery howled. They had never seen Snead so relaxed.

Sam knocked his 10-footer in.

Then he came to the 455-yard eighteenth. It is a difficult hole to birdie. Snead's approach sailed true, but it left him with a 15-foot putt. He had to sink it to tie and "get the little man."

He studied the greens for four minutes. He addressed the ball. He sent it straight to its destination and the gallery called the shot even before it plunked into the cup.

It gave him a 66, a five under par and two stroke better than the tournament's previous best round.

Jack Burke, White Plains, N. Y., wound up in third place with 281.

In fourth place is Ellsworth Vines, the ex-tennis great, who carded 285.

Jim Ferrier, of San Francisco, finished fifth with 286.

Jerry Barber, who started the day two strokes ahead of Hogan, blew badly and finished with 288.

IT GOT AWAY—Colin Anderson (3), ace Tech forward, looks frantically over his shoulder at the ball that got away during the early stages of last night's game with Auburn. No. 11 for the Jackets is Mickey Semersheim and the Tech man looking on at left is Bill Cline. The Auburn man charging up from left is George Hill, a forward.

Tech Ends Auburn's Win String at Eight, 65-49

By JESSE OUTLAR

Georgia Tech's sharpshooting Jackets, connecting on 25 of 61 attempts from the field, toppled Auburn from the undefeated ranks, 65-49, to cop their first Southeastern Conference victory of the season last night on the Tech court.

Tech's frosh beat Auburn, 66-55, in a preliminary game.

Auburn, coached by Joel Eaves, former Murphy High mentor, previously had won eight straight games, including three league victories. It was the eighth triumph for Tech in 13 starts.

It was a see-saw struggle in the early stages, with the score being knotted five times in the first 10 minutes before the Jackets moved out front 17-16 on a pair of foul shots by Joe Keener. Thereafter, Tech never trailed, piling up a commanding 29-18 advantage in the next six minutes.

It was strictly a team victory for the Jackets, who were making their first home appearance in 10 games. Guard Mel Dold took point honors for Tech with 13 markers. Joe Keener had 12 and Colin Anderson and Bill Cline, six-six pivot ace, accounted for 11 each.

However, Auburn's Bill Lynn, six-five center, and the only senior in Eaves' starting lineup, flipped in six field goals and five free throws for 17 points and individual honors. Dan Pridgen, although he netted only six points, gave a smooth floor performance for Auburn.

Auburn, trailing 11 points at half time, trimmed the deficit to nine points on a two-pointer by George Hill in the first minute of the second half, and that was the nearest Auburn ever came to getting back in the ball game.

The Tigers were erratic from field, hitting only 17 of 77 shots from field, but were deadly at the free-throw line, cashing in on 15 of 21 attempts.

Georgia Tech plays Alabama at Tuscaloosa Saturday night and meets Kentucky here Monday night.

In the girls' game, Joyce Barnieau grabbed the honors with 25 points to lead the Clarkston sextet to a 37-23 victory.

The Clarkston B team made it a clean sweep for the night with a 33-23 triumph over the Avondale B squad.

Scott Leads Bass Quintet Over O'Keefe

By BOB CHRISTIAN

After a 17-17 halftime deadlock, Bass High pulled away in the opening minutes of the second half for a hard-earned 42-37 victory over O'Keefe High last night at the Grady gym.

Bobby Willis, Graham Bell and Jack Turner kicked in three baskets in a minute and 18 seconds to push the Blue Wave from the halftime deadlock to a 23-17 lead that increased to 12 points in the fourth period before dwindling to the final outcome of five tallies.

The Irish and Blue Wave played a spine-tinkling first half with the score never being stretched more than a pair of points between the two teams. The score changed hands 11 times and was tied on six occasions before intermission.

Sparking the Bass quintet was Sonny Scott with the number he wore on his jersey 13. Jack Turner, who turned in a whale of a defense job in limiting O'Keefe's big Perry to one field goal and three free throws, had an even dozen points for runner-up honors.

Johnny Nisewonger had 12 points for tops in the Irish's camp.

In a preliminary game, the O'Keefe yearlings won a 40-33 verdict from the baby Blue Wave, with Gene Shaddis scoring 16 points for the Irish. Doyal Pair accounted for 11 in the Blue Wave's book to lead his teammates.

TROPHY RETIRED

Hirschfield Pegasus II Wins All-Age Group

By BERT PRATHER, Constitution Sports Writer

WAYNESBORO—Raymond Hoagland, of Cartersville, yesterday became permanent owner of the handsome silver trophy which goes to the owner of the Georgia Field Trials Association's members all-age champion each year.

Usually the winner of this trophy has to cart it back here the next year and watch some other proud winner take temporary possession of it, but not Raymond Hoagland. His dogs have proven so successful here since 1940 that he has come up with the required three wins to retire the old championship mug. Latest winner, and the one to put the clincher on the trophy, was Hirschfield Pegasus II who handled one covey "find" Capably and ran a good staunch race later Monday afternoon. The last three braces in the 34-dog field were run off yesterday morning, but none was able to displace the previous good work of the Cartersville dog in the minds of Judges Boyce Williams, of Tampa, Fla., and Lester White, of Orlando.

An Atlanta owned dog did make a fine effort, though in yesterday's final brace, Accolade Ann, a pointer female owned and handled by Horace Gullat, Treasurer of the Atlanta Field Trial Club, made a big cast and found a covey to grab third place behind a setter male, Jack's Joe, owned by W. S. Therrel, of Charlottee, N. C., and handled by Hoover Black, also of Charlotte. Jack's Joe was credited with a single find by Judge White.

Brownies Crush Tide, 47-30

By JACK JACKSON

A smooth-as-silk Brown High basketball team opened its drive toward the City League championship by trampling Roosevelt's defending State AA champions, 47-30, before a howling throng last night at Brown.

It was the air-tight Reb defense plus the sharp shooting of Pepper Rogers and Bill Bartlett that turned what had been tabbed as the best of the early season loop contests into somewhat of a breeze for Roy Rowlett's quintet. Rogers, playing one of his best games to date, connected on eight field goals and five taree throws for 21 points, while Bartlett canned five fielders and two from the foul line for 12 points, 10 of which came in a torrid first half.

The Reb defense hit its peak during the opening half, limiting the Tide—a 53-21 victor over Grady in its only other outing—to four field goals and only ten points. Meanwhile, Brown hit high gear in the second period and went out at intermission with a 15-point bulge.

Eddie Webster found the range in the second half to lead Tide scorers with eight points while Ken Martin added six more. But their efforts were no match for the West Enders.

Roosevelt broke on top, leading 3-0 and then 5-2. But there, Brown took over. The Rebs ran the count to 14-5 before the Tide scored again and to 22-6 before O. V. Brunner's lads garnered another field goal.

The second half saw the teams battle on just about even terms, but Roosevelt had fallen too far behind to do any good.

In the preliminary, Brown's Bees made a night of it, coming from behind to take a 36-32 decision. Dan Fausett, towering Brownie center, led his club with nine, while Lloyd Teague bucketed 15 for the losers.

JENKINS VISITS CRACKERS

Help This Year Is Braves' Aim

By F. M. WILLIAMS

Harry Jenkins, director of the Boston Braves' farm system, flew into Atlanta yesterday and went into an immediate conference with Pres. Earl Mann, of the Crackers, about plans for the 1950 baseball season.

The Braves and Atlanta recently signed a working agreement and Jenkins said his visit here is primarily "to discuss our situation and that of the Crackers" with Earl.

"We naturally cannot say who will be sent here yet, for most of the men we believe will help Atlanta are on teams of higher classification," Jenkins said. "They will have to go to Spring training with the teams to which they are assigned."

Jenkins said he would make an early trip to Atlanta in the Spring and it probably would be after that when the Braves name the men to be assigned here.

"This Double-A business is new to us," Harry said. "We have never had a team in that classification before. I believe we can be of aid to Atlanta next season, but if it turns out we can't, I know we can help in a couple of years. You can rest assured we will do all we can to be of real assistance in 1950.

"We had 12 farm clubs last year and only two of them finished out of the first division, so you can see we have promising youngsters in our system."

Jenkins, who flies his own plane, dropped in from Myrtle Beach, where he has been inspecting Spring training quarters for all the Braves' farm clubs. He plans to leave today, weather permitting, for Orlando, Fla.

NCAA May Probe Bowl 'Expenses'

LSU's Action Causes Lifting of Eyebrows

NEW YORK—(AP)—The National Colegiate Athletic Association raised its official eyebrows yesterday over a report that Louisiana State football players have been given extra money for playing in the Sugar Bowl and announced a sweeping probe probably would be made of bowl expense payments.

"This is most unusual," Dr. Karl Leib, president of the NCAA, said. "I don't doubt this will be brought to the attention of the Constitutional Compliance Committee."

The Compliance Committee is the policing agency of the NCAA's sanity code, which is in for a battle at the NCAA sessions here this week.

LSU announced Monday, players who played in the Sugar Bowl game against Oklahoma would receive $250 each for extra expenses involved in training.

The disclosure met with mixed reaction, both from among NCAA officials and other member schools which also took part in bowl games.

Leib said he hasn't had a full report on the LSU action and so could make no statement on it. It may prove that the payments were justified, he added.

"However," Leib said. "I imagine this will call for some investigation and we may try to standardize the payments given boys who miss the holidays to play in post-season games."

James Stewart, Southwest Conference Commissioner and a member of the Compliance Committee, said his group probably would study the situation to see if the sanity code is violated.

Meanwhile, a strong defense of LSU's action came from T. P. (Red) Heard, little red-haired athletic director of the Baton Rouge institution.

"Let the NCAA take it up," he said. "I don't know what they can do about it. We violated nothing. We did just what every other team that plays in bowls does for its men.

"What about the Oklahoma players? They and their wives were taken on a pleasure trip to Cuba. Don't tell me that didn't take at least $250 apiece."

Walter Kraft, Oklahoma faculty representative, acknowledged the Sooner players were taken on the Cuban trip as appreciation for their bowl time and added he thought there is justification for expenses for players taken on a trip.

Bernie Moore, commissioner of the Southeastern Conference of which LSU is a member, said he saw no violation of amateur ethics in the payment.

"The way it was explained to me it was simply a payment for expenses the boys incurred while in training and the time they were away from home," he declared.

Richard Larkins, Athletic Director at Ohio State said it was "going beyond the limits that are necessary and may cause repercussions among bowl teams next year."

He said a bowl game is nothing more than an extended out-of-town game and that major wants are taken care of by the athletic department. Ohio State players were given $35 expense money for the Rose Bowl, he declared.

Brutus Hamilton, Athletic Director of the University of California, said the Golden Bears received no extra money, adding: "their meals, board and entertainment, which was sometimes lavish, were taken care of, of course."

Dennis A. Heenan, Athletic Director of Santa Clara which traveled across the continent to play Kentucky in the Orange Bowl, declined to comment on how expenses were handled.

"Some of our boys gave up good jobs with good pay to play in the Orange Bowl," he said. "But I heard no complaints. They semed happy enough."

North Carolina, which played in the Cotton Bowl, gave its players enough to take wives or parents to the Dallas game.

Newnan Five Tops Griffin, 40 to 30

NEWNAN—Newnan's undefeated boys' basketball team moved past Griffin, 40-30, here last night after the local girls had edged the visiting sextet, 23-22.

Griffin led, 23-19, at halftime in the boys game, but Potts and Dean led a Tiger comeback which brought victory. Potts scored 12 and Dean 11 to lead point-makers.

Katherine Strickland won the girls game for Newnan with a field goal and free throw just as the fray ended.

Central High Edges Baker

COLUMBUS — Roger Farrar zipped in a field goal in the last 30 seconds here last night to give Central High, of Phenix City, Ala., a 33-31 victory over Baker Village, its eighth in as many starts.

Baker Village was the decided underdog but it stayed in the game until the last 20 seconds.

Harry Tinker topped the winners' scorers with 12 points and Ray Mobley and Lomax Adams shared high-point honors for the losers with nine.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Jim Dickey, 24 Other Cards Sign; Hunt To Aid Crowe at Baltimore

Condensed from AP, UP, INS Wire Reports

Jim Dickey, the Atlanta boy who switched from first base to the outfield and had one of the biggest years of any man in the St. Louis Cardinal organization while playing for Omaha last season, was one of 25 men announced by Pres. Fred Saigh as already having signed a 1950 contract with the National League entry yesterday.

Dickey, former star athlete at West Fulton high school, is being brought up with the parent team for the first time this season.

Included among those who have already signed for the coming season are Pitchers Max Lanier, Gerald Staley, Fred Martin, Ken Johnson, John Yushas, Ellis Deal, Tom Poholsky, and Maurice Garlocky; Catchers Joe Garagiola, John Mucha and Vernon Rapp; Infielders Nippy Jones, Eddie Kazak, Tor my Glaviano, Solly Hemus, Steve Bilko, Glenn Nelson, and Ed Nietopski, and Outfielders Stan Musial, Chuck Diering, Bill Howerton, Danny Gardella, Ed Mierkowicz, Russ Derry and Dickey.

NCAA Wrangle: Dr. Karl Lieb, president of the NCAA, said on the eve of the organization's first session to review the "sanity code" violations, said his outfit is not "witch hunting" and that it will give rebellious members every chance to hold their standing under the code.

The NCAA president revealed that several moves are underway to modify the code and make it more liberal. "If the revised code meets the approval of these members objecting to it they will be allowed to go along," he said.

THE ROUNDUP: Clem Crowe, former Notre Dame star and ex-coach of the Buffalo Bills, signed a contract yesterday to tutor the Baltimore Colts for two years. . . . His first official act in his new capacity was to hire Joel Hunt, former Georgia mentor, and William (Red) Conkright, as two of his assistants.

May the Best Man Win

Georgia now is set for a wide-open political scramble.

And may the best man win.

The preliminary ground rules, at least, have been laid down by Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook's ruling that both Gov. Talmadge and former Gov. Arnall are eligible to hold the Governor's office for a four-year term if elected.

Mr. Cook's ruling is clear, logical and sensible.

We are glad the Attorney General didn't dodge the issue. He easily might have done so. It is whispered that some prodding was necessary and if that be true we are glad the prodders were about.

However, it was a difficult assignment at best, made doubly so by the Attorney General's unofficial opinion given newsmen in 1948 that the winner of the special election would not be eligible to run in the 1950 general election. Mr. Cook gave that opinion on the spur of the moment. It was strictly unofficial. He ought not to be held accountable for it. The fact remains that he had the courage to reverse himself.

It seems to us both sides ought to be satisfied. Mr. Cook has taken a liberal interpretation of the new constitution, and he gives sound reasons for his opinion. He goes back to the old constitution and finds there in crystal-clear language this sentence: "After qualifying for a four-year term he (the Governor) shall not be eligible to be re-elected for the next succeeding four-year term or any part thereof."

The Constitutional Commission decided there ought not to be any restriction on succession and did not include it in its draft of the new document. But the Committee of the Legislature considering the new constitution thought otherwise and restored the restriction. In an attempt to clarify the effect upon the Governor then in office the Committee inserted what many have construed to be ambiguous language.

Gov. Talmadge, then, is not serving a full term as defined by the constitution. Likewise, when Gov. Arnall remained in office five days beyond expiration of his term he was complying with constitutional provision that a Governor remain in office until his successor is duly elected and qualified. Gov. Arnall was waiting for Thompson or Talmadge to be qualified, and his term did not exceed the constitutional provision.

We can't now see any reason for an appeal to the courts. Mr. Cook's ruling ought to be satisfactory all the way around.

Let the election come—and, as we said, let the best man win—be it Talmadge, Arnall or someone completely new.

The field is wide open, regardless of previous servitude.

RFC Loan to Ports Authority

Georgia's experience with the State port facilities at Savannah has been, altogether, a happy one.

The facilities were purchased from the War Assets Administration at a bargain price of $808,000. They are worth $6,000,000 to $7,000,000.

A number of concerns have taken space in the numerous buildings. Only a few days ago it was announced Tetley Tea will locate a sizable blending plant there. The Authority operated at a profit its first year.

And yesterday came news that RFC has granted a $4,500,000 loan, subject to validation by the courts, for improving facilities. The loan will be self-liquidating. It will provide a pier capable of handling four large cargo vessels together with modern machinery and other improvements. No doubt this will bring more shipping and more industries.

A thriving port will be of benefit to the entire State. Georgia is getting off to a late start but at least we are making progress.

Constitutional Board Needed

Yesterday Sen. Knox Gholston announced he is ready to "fight to a finish" for his highway reorganization plan at the forthcoming session of the General Assembly.

Last Sunday The Atlanta Constitution indorsed the Talmadge plan after plugging for months for a compromise. That campaign was in part successful.

We advocate the Talmadge plan chiefly because the Governor proposes to carry out his platform pledge for a constitutional highway board.

Sen. Gholston admits his plan does not have the support to put through the General Assemble necessary legislation for a constitutional amendment to be submitted to the people. Until recently, when it became apparent that he could not muster that support, Sen. Gholston contended that a statutory change would be little or no better than any change at all.

We still adhere to that opinion.

Sen. Gholston says he wants highway building removed entirely from under the thumb of the Governor. But his statutory plan could be changed at the will of the Legislature. And almost invariably an incoming Governor controls the Legislature.

We'll stick by the Talmadge plan in hopes of getting a constitutional setup.

RALPH McGILL

Governor Talmadge On Tax Revision

(Ralph McGill is on vacation. During his absence prominent Georgians will contribute guest columns in this space. Today's is by Gov. Herman Talmadge.)

The main problems of finance that we have in Georgia are principally in four departments of the State government which at the present time expend 95 percent of the revenue. These departments are Health, Education, Welfare and Highways.

One thing that has compounded our difficulty in these departments is the necessity of raising funds to match Federal fund allocations allotted to Georgia. These funds are usually conditioned upon the State putting up a certain percentage.

The Federal Government is constantly broadening and expanding their programs dealing with grants to States for welfare and building services. It is reasonable to suppose that in the transformation from wartime to peacetime economy that these programs might be further stepped up in order to stimulate employment. Certainly, Georgia should be in a position to take full advantage of existing programs and those likely to be adopted in the near future.

During the deliberations of the Tax Revision Committee, department head after department head testified in regard to the operation of their respective departments. Dr. Collins, Dr. Sellers, Mr. Gillis, Judge Kemper and others appeared before the Committee and outlined, in detail, the constructive work being done in their respective fields, and demonstrated forcibly how additional funds could be utilized justifiably in carrying out the aims and programs of their respective activities.

Efficient Nonpartisan observers must admit that every department of the State government today is operating at the highest degree of honesty and efficiency in its history. This statement holds true particularly for the Revenue Department, which is the agency for collecting taxes due the State. We are invoking new administrative procedures, and have, under the framework of the present law, augmented the personnel of some of the units, thus greatly increasing efficiency.

There are some who have tried to sell the people of Georgia on the proposition that our tax laws are archaic, antique and out of date. They frequently compare what they call the "hodgepodge" in Georgia with the tax system in vogue in the State of North Carolina.

A study of the revenue laws of that State will reveal that North Carolina has practically the same identical laws we do here in Georgia with the exception that they also have, in addition to what we have, a 3 percent sales tax, a 6 percent gross receipts tax on public utilities and a higher income tax.

Another fallacious argument frequently advanced by those who seek to saddle oppressive taxation on our people is the low amount of tax per capita that our citizens pay compared with the total paid by citizens who reside in the richer States. They do not stop to point out that the average incomes in these States are twice and three times that in Georgia.

Our general tax laws in this State have been evolved over a period of years and a great deal of thought and deliberation has gone into their enaction. They have been framed by our leaders who took into consideration the extent of our resources, or to put it plainer, "how much the traffic would bear." Our lawmakers know that we cannot levy taxation which would burden our farmers or drive our business enterprises in this State to bankruptcy.

Inequities There are some inequities in the present tax laws of Georgia which should be corrected at the next session of the General Assembly. The solons should repeal the so-called nuisance taxes which produce very little and cost much to collect.

Repeal of these burdensome license taxes, which total in the hundreds and are levied on practically every pursuit, calling, profession, corporation and business in the State of Georgia, will certainly meet with the unanimous approval of our people. I have had many merchants to come in my office and tell me that they live in constant dread of collection agents coming in their places of business and telling them that they are several years behind for one of these nuisance taxes which they did not know anything about.

One of the most complex problems with which the Assembly will have to deal is that of ad valorem or taxation on real and personal property. The State, county and local governments now levy this tax. The State is limited by the Constitution in the amount it can levy to five mills. The greatest difficulty is attaining equalization of assessments throughout the State. Other States who have had the same trouble have sought to meet it by widely differing corrective methods, some of which have been effective while others have been of little benefit. I believe that the Legislature should propose a constitutional amendment to the people at the next general election, withdrawing the State from the ad valorem field, leaving this method entirely to counties and cities. This reform has had my repeated indorsement in the past, and also has the approval of the County Commissioners' Association of Georgia, who have adopted resolutions from time to time urging this step.

There have been suggestions from some quarters that we should raise the rate or lower the exemptions on State income tax. This field is one which the Federal Government has largely appropriated unto itself. We cannot look to this source for any increase in our State's revenue. The Federal Government has reached the saturation point, and we cannot compound that saturation.

Debt Governors since the State was founded have been plagued upon coming into office with a heavy bonded indebtedness. The inflated war economy made it possible for the State to finally pay off all of its bonded indebtedness and to take care of its current obligations. Fortunately, it is the present administration's policy to keep it that way. We regret that during the war years and the years that immediately followed, a good bit of our tax money was wasted through negotiated highway contracts and nonproductive employees who were just on the payroll doing no work at all. This money could well have been saved to carry us over the hump, which we will face in what some believe to be the near future.

Financial problems of all units of government today on the local, State and Federal levels are caused by the fact that more and more of our citizens are demanding and expecting more and more services of our government. If the people desire all of these services they must make up their mind to pay taxes for them. In other words, if we ride the train, we will have to pay the freight.

The difficult part of financing our State government today is due to the fact that the Federal Government collects five times as much revenue in Georgia as does the State itself. Because of this fact alone, we are rapidly approaching the point of diminishing returns. It is also interesting to note that the Federal Government is now collecting from Georgians in taxes five times what they did 10 years ago, or in excess of $500,000,000 per year.

No one can predict with accuracy the effect future economic conditions will have upon the State's revenue. The General Assembly should bear this important fact in mind in all of its deliberations.

All Are Eligible; Who Is Qualified?

The Attorney General has ruled that both Herman Talmadge and Ellis Arnall are eligible to run for Governor this year.

This is good news to the Talmadge supporters. They never had any doubt about Herman running, of course, but they're glad to know it's legal.

Already having been dispossessed once by the courts, the Governor can be calculated to follow the letter of the law in the future, particularly when it's on his side.

Some disgruntled anti-Talmadgeites are critical of the Attorney General's ruling in view of his 1948 opinion that "whoever might be elected Governor in the following election would be prohibited by the terms of the Constitution from holding office if re-elected in 1950." But they should long since have realized that Eugene Cook is like the old-time professor who, in an interview with the board of a rural school to which he had applied for a job, was asked whether he thought the world was round or flat.

"Whatever you say," came the ready reply. "I can teach it either way."

Seriously, now that it's decided—to the Attorney General's satisfaction at any rate—who's eligible for the Governorship, the next question is who's qualified.

I suggest that all candidates be required to submit (1) to a sobriety test and (2) a lunacy hearing.

The shape the State government is in at present, I mean, I can't imagine anybody even thinking about running for Governor unless he's drunk or crazy.

M. L. ST. JOHN

A Visitor Who Caused a Stir

When you work in a newspaper office, you get accustomed to seeing celebrities of various sorts stroll into the office. It isn't rare to see Sports Writer F. M. Williams or Sports Editor Johnny Bradberry refereeing a bout between "Maxie" Baer and "Man Mountain" Dean in the Sports Department near your desk. Or to see Kay Francis, Marie Wilson ("My Friend Irma"), Sonny Tufts, or some other movie star chatting with Movie Editor Paul Jones over across the way. Or to see Harold Martin's aged bicycle-riding friend stopping off on a transcontinental peddling tour. Or to see City Editor Luke Greene or Managing Editor Lee Rogers talking with some character who has grown a sweet potato that looks like a frog or something.

Hardened as the newsroom is to important people paying pop calls, our visitor caused a self-conscious stirring when she came in nonchalantly and sat down at our desk to do a little work. Most of the staff knew her and came over to greet her. Others, like Republican Parker Lowell, who didn't know her, invented excuses to be introduced. It was the most attention to be paid to our political desk since election night.

She was Betty Talmadge, Georgia's First Lady. She is planning to decorate the library of the Lovejoy farm home with action pictures of Gov. Talmadge, and she dropped in to pick out some of the hundreds of pictures made by Constitution photographers during the Talmadge administration. It should be a very newsworthy room—practically a newsreel of Herman's administration—when she gets it decorated.

Speaking of Mrs. Talmadge, you wouldn't believe it, of course, but she got lost in the State Capitol a few days ago. She is not one to hang around her husband's office much. She always comes in through the same main entrance. This time she tried a short cut, became confused with the rambling corridors, and finally had to ask the Information Desk in the rotunda to direct her to the Governor's office.

C. L. "BUDDY" KING, JR., of Dalton, who sells gum labels, rubber stamps, etc., and wants to run for Governor if someone will donate the money for his campaign, is having trouble getting a running mate as well as contributions. King invited Dan Duke to run as Lieutenant Governor on his proposed ticket, on the theory that "King and Duke" would make a royal pair in the State Capitol. Duke said if he ran for anything it would be for Governor. He thought that King was going to a lot of trouble planning to bring a jackass to Atlanta to parade as a publicity stunt when—and if—he qualifies. Duke opined there were plenty of such animals, etc., already in Atlanta. Duke said the State would be a lot better off if it had a Governor's race every week so at least eight of 10 people in every town could run for Governor—then the people could become educated to what has actually happened to the political life of Georgia.

"IT IS BETTER to build boys than to mend men." That is the slogan of the Beacon, new publication of the Georgia Juvenile Training Institute at Rome. Published by the boys who are serving time in this unique honor camp, the newspaper carries news of the varied sports activities and educational courses offered by the school. Its editorials point out that crime does not pay, and encourage the boys to return to society as better citizens.

ASSISTANT Attorney General "Red" Williams, of Douglas, is a strict believer in Home Rule. His phone rang, he told the State Highway Board, and a county official informed Williams that a landowner was threatening to settle a right-of-way dispute with a shotgun.

"Obtaining that right-of-way is purely a local matter," said the lawyer, as he hastily hung up the phone.

'BUGS' BAER

The old ham-and-eggers have enlarged the menu. Pie in the sky for dessert.

It's the ancient merry-go-round gimmick with a brass ring in every package. And will it be popular with the grabees? You might as well ask if Lady Godiva would have attracted more attention on a zebra.

BILLY ROSE

The Talking Horses of Elberfeld

Remember my recent piece on the subject of educated dogs—the one in which I reported the testimony of several scientists who had examined a group of pooches in Germany and found they could add, subtract and even carry on a simple conversation via alphabet blocks?

Well, shortly after the column appeared, my office was bombarded with letters calling me a cocker-eyed liar, and insisting that no hound in the history of this bilious green earth had ever done the things the professors attested to.

Okay. The objections are hereby acknowledged and duly noted.

In 1900, a Berlin misanthrope named Wilhelm von Osten decided he preferred the company of hayburners to that of humans, and so he moved to Elberfeld where he bought and proceeded to train a Russian stallion which he called Clever Hans.

Instruction By means of a numeral code system, he taught the animal to answer questions by tapping its hoof on a sounding-board and, according to the record, in a matter of months it could "read, do arithmetic and distinguish between dissonant and harmonious chords."

Shortly before von Osten died, he willed Clever Hans to a Herr Krall, who added several other horses to the school, including Hanschen, a Shetland pony; Berto, a nearly blind black stallion, and Muhamed, an Arabian colt which turned out to be the Quiz Kid of the class.

Tests Naturally, the scientists in Berlin heard of these horsey high-jinks, and a committee headed by a Professor Stumpf and a Dr. Pfungst (beautiful names, those) hotfooted it to Elberfeld and put horses and owner through their respective paces.

When satisfied that the educated equines could handle the simpler forms of mathematics, a Dr. Hartmann, of Cologne, politely asked Muhamed for the cube roots of 13,824, 29,791 and 103,823. The Arabian, without batting tail or mane, tapped out the answers—24, 31 and 47, respectively. What, a Professor Sarasin, of, Bale, then wanted to know, was the fifth root of 147,008,443? Muhamed gave a contemptuous snort, the meaning of which was plainly, "Ask me something hard" and gave him the answer. (Anyone with horse sense knows it's 43.)

Incidentally, if you think I've been lacing my coffee with Chinese tobacco and want to check on the talking horses of Elberfeld, go ahead. The story can be found on the shelves of any fair-sized library.

Of course, another way of checking is to associate with a better type of horse.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

The Constitution welcomes letters on either side of any subject. They should not exceed 200 words and must be signed although names will be withheld on request. We regret none can be returned. Address all letters to Editor Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Remedy Needed

Editor Constitution: A man died in Atlanta a few nights ago.

A man died because he could not obtain the medical attention which may have saved his life. I do not claim that the elixir of life would have been restored had professional care been administered, but I know you will agree with me in that his sons would have felt much better had they known that all was done that could possibly have been done.

When an ambulance could not be afforded to transport the sick man to a hospital, the telephone directory was opened to the section marked "Physicians." Physicians in our city were called for 45 minutes to no avail. What retort did some make to the supplication they received? I quote: "Is the ailing man in a financial condition which would enable him to reimburse for the services rendered?" Indeed, I feel sorry for our poor doctors whose memories so fail them that they do not recall the ethical guide of the medical profession—the Hippocratic oath.

As a last resort, the Police Department was petitioned for aid. Did the good policewoman who answered the telephone think that the person in tears at the other end of the phone was having an early April's fool joke? Such must have been the case, because she replaced her phone back on its receiver before the conversation could even be finished.

At times, I am forced to wonder if there is any hope—any humanity—left in our world. If in a moment of extreme emergency, an easy chair and a pipe are more important than one fragile life, I do not think so.

Do the people of Atlanta realize the situation that exists in their city? If they do not know Mr. "X" who has the influence which will help them in an emergency, they will not be helped. I sincerely hope they may discover this fact before they are in need and then perhaps—I say perhaps—in some way, a remedy may be found.

Editor Constitution: Have just read the letter in the Jan. 3 Pulse of the Public written by Esther Cox. I saw the same object and it was seen also by Mr. Ellis Brooks and Richard Long. The object was about on a west-northwest course and about half way between Conyers and Lawrenceville. We distinctly heard the sound of motors but the device was apparently two and one-half or three miles up.

We first thought it was a plane giving off a wide band of vapor that was freezing directly behind the plane. No tail was visible, though the plane was at right-angle to us when first seen. Nor was it possible to see a tail at any time. The object was moving at an estimated speed of about 100 m.p.h. It moved on the west-northwest course for about five or six minutes and then turned as if to approach the Municipal Airport, but continued on for about 10 minutes and circled back and began a slow descent as though it were coming in to the Airport against the easterly wind for a landing. All the time we watched it the vapor was visible for several miles. At times the object appeared to be cylindrical in shape and about three or four times as long as it's thickness. The vapor was still visible when the object disappeared below the horizon. The time was about 4:40 p. m. when the object was first sighted and was visible for 20 or 25 minutes. At least we could see the vapor or smoke, or whatever it was.

This was Friday, Dec. 30, and the letter in The Constitution was the first I had seen about it.

Vapor Trail?

Editor Constitution: In your paper of Jan. 3, 1950, you published a letter by Esther H. Cox in which was described a strange object seen late Friday afternoon. From the description given, this long, white object would seem to possess the characteristics of a vapor trail which is often formed by an aircraft flying at high altitude. These vapor trails sometimes can be terminated abruptly by a change in altitude or power setting. Vapor trails, like smoke, diffuse and will appear larger after a short time.

An aircraft at a sufficient altitude to produce this phenomena probably would not be spotted from the ground, especially after the trail had ceased.

The figure seemed to be moving from northeast to southwest. A check with the weather bureau would indicate if the winds aloft at that time would have favored movement in that direction. We have observed several vapor trails over Atlanta during the last few months.

Grateful

Editor Constitution: In retrospect as a Church Woman I find that during the past year your paper has been most generous and co-operative in helping us make known our program for the spiritual life of Georgia.

I am particularly grateful for the space you have given to such Christian leaders as Dr. Norman Vincent Peale. The influence of such conscientious journalism cannot be measured, only felt and appreciated.

Along with the trials and tribulations of the world, there is a hope. Christians see it and toil on toward the goal of international brotherhood. This is news—"the good news" of Christ. When it is announced alongside the failures and foibles of man, it gives people the opportunity to exercise a sense of values, and a choice of a way of life.

Thank you so much. Do let us continue.

A Study of Taxi Drivers

I have made a profound study of taxi drivers on my recent junket into the East and I have come to the conclusion that you could blindfold me, put me into an airplane, drop me down in an unknown city, put me in a cab and as soon as I heard the taxi driver utter his first sound I could tell you whether I was in New York, Philadelphia or Washington.

The New York driver is by far the most fantastic of the breed. He has a voice like gravel rolling down a tin roof, and he is constantly in a rage about something. He drives with great velocity and he keeps up a ceaseless fire of scurrilous invectives directed toward those who share the streets with him. He suffers from a strange myopia which prevents his seeing a pedestrian and when he does see one he shows him no mercy.

He bears down upon him at high speed, muttering imprecations, and it does not matter whether the pedestrian is an aged and infirm character wearing dark glasses and a hearing-aid, or an agile bond salesman dressed in a derby hat and a Chesterfield overcoat, he pursues them with equal relentlessness.

He treats his patrons with a disdain equal to that with which he regards pedestrians, and his hoarse shouts of rage he reserves for those who do not tip him as heavily as his avaricious nature dictates. He can be hushed into silence by either of two methods. If the bill is 55 cents and you give him a dollar and tell him to keep the change he will utter a low grunt, which in New York taxi drivers' language passes for "thanks." If you give him a quarter he will look pained and say nothing; for 15 cents he will sneer, and for a dime he will hurl coarse insults at you which are audible to all passersby. The best answer to this, if you have plenty of time, is to hurl coarse insults back at him, but you can never win in an exchange of this kind.

It is with a sense of great relief that the wayfarer, after a few days of swapping cuss-words with New York taxi drivers, reaches Philadelphia. The brotherly love for which the city was famed may have died out in the breasts of most of its citizens, but its hackies are invariably a mellow and amiable lot. They spring out and open doors, address you as as "sir," inquire as to your health, and say "thanks" for a dime tip as if they meant it. One reason is, of course, that the Philadelphia cab company keeps "mystery riders" out, hiring cabs and taking notes on the cab driver's treatment of his fares. Courteous drivers get a dollar—surly ones get a chewing or get canned. The result is the Philadelphia cabbies are the best on the Atlantic seaboard so far as keeping their patrons happy is concerned. Unfortunately the human male is a cowardly soul and he usually tips the surly New York cabbie a nickel or so more than he does the amiable Philadelphian.

The Washington cabbie is a different breed from either. He is a whiner. Congress, with a fine disregard for the cost of living, hasn't raised cab fares in the Capital since 1935 and you can still ride two miles for 30 cents. As soon as you get in the cab the Washington driver immediately begins telling you about this deplorable situation, pointing out that he is starving to death—the implication being, of course, that you, if you are not a cad, will enhance his meager pittance by a fat tip. In fact, he is frank in saying that he cannot live without his tips, which leads him to make the observation that Congressmen and Senators are the world's lousiest tippers.

"Dey raise dere own pay, o. k., dose guys," said one cabbie in great disgust, "but do dey pass it around? Nah! It reads on the meter 30 cents. You know what they give you?—thirty cents."

"I just wish dem guys had to drive a cab for a while," he went on. "They'd learn something. Say," he said, "dat's an idea. Put all them guys to drivin' cabs and put the cab drivers up there making laws and the country'd be a lot better off."

Maybe he's got something there.

There's a Lot To Do Yet

WASHINGTON — Reorganization of the Federal Government along strict economy lines is now about one-fifth completed, the Hoover Commission says in a special progress report.

The Commission declares that this will mean ultimate savings in Government operating costs of at least $1,250,000,000. Operating economies in the Armed Services will add another $1,000,000,000, it adds.

Submitting a detailed memorandum to every member of Congress, the Commission's Citizens' Committee says that bills for other important reforms will be introduced soon in this session and urges their prompt approval.

"New gains can, and should, be made within the next few months," the memo declares, particularly if high priority is given by Congress to at least four additional major reforms.

The Committee's memorandum lists these as reorganization and modernization of the Post Office, improvement of Federal personnel management, streamlining of budgeting and accounting procedures and reforming of top agencies.

"Reorganization has entered its 'year of decision.' Upon events in Washington during the new session of Congress will depend the final destiny of the Hoover Commission's report," the Committee asserts.

It adds that definite improvements in the organization and management of the executive branch under Presidential plans approved by the last Congress, and that this work should now continue.

"About 20 percent of the Commission's recommendations were enacted at the last session," the Committee says. It points out that in terms of service to citizens the recorded gains were even greater.

"No one can estimate in dollars the value to the public of a more smoothly operating State Department. Nor can anyone put a price tag on the eventual value of better lines of communication in foreign and military intelligence assured by the unification law.

"Despite all the normal and necessary differences of opinion on purely partisan issues, there is solid and sincere support for basic, bipartisan improvement in the management of government."

BOB CONSIDINE

It's a Lot More Than You Think

WASHINGTON—Do you have the faintest idea how much is $42,500,000,000? You're going to have to raise part of it any minute now, to fill out the President's budget for the next fiscal year and enable him to pay the costs of running the most complex organization in history—the U. S. Government.

If you're anything like me, Mac, you can't think very clearly when confronted by figures of more than four digits. You plod along wondering when you're going to get an extra buck to stash away or play around with, and when the boys in Washington tap you over the skull with the word "billion" it no longer hurts.

IT NO LONGER hurts because you became a little figure-happy some years ago when the word "million"—which you vaguely comprehended as being a necessary part of all things big—was replaced by "billion." The war's astronomical figures did the rest of the damage to your brain, and now, if you're like most of us, you take a quick gander at the headlines about the $42½ billion budget, say something snappy like "Hmmm," and thumb on to sports or the gory comics.

A billion is an everday term at the moment, but do you realize that scarcely more than one billion minutes have ticked off the sun-dials and watches of the world since the birth of Christ?

Only 17 million hours have gone by since the event at Bethlehem, and we think of $17 millions today as something that might be a gift to a minor (very minor) country—for irrigation, or some such.

Do you realize that only a little over 700,000 days have come and gone since Christ? No Washington official worth his salt would even mention the word "thousand," unless he enjoyed having his mouth washed out with a strong soap.

NOW, for some mathematical reflections on the money involved in the President's request for cabbage enough to operate us for one year. Remember, one year!

If you were born when Christ was and had known the habit of sleeping, and had the cash, and were immune to death, you would have had to spend $42 a minute, night and day, for 1950 years to equal what we're going to spend in the next year.

That would mean you'd spend $2,500 an hour; a lot of mink coats over the years.

FOR WHAT we're going to spend next fiscal year, we could have arranged for the Louisiana Purchase and then—for the hell of it—repurchased it from Napoleon 3,000 additional times at the same $15,000,000 rate. But for the original $15,000,000 we got nearly a million square miles of the richest land on earth, carved eventually into more than two dozen of our 48 states.

We could have bought and rebought Alaska 6,000 times.

Anyway, let's stop saying, "it's later than you think." How about changing to "it's more than you think." And, to top all of these heady statistics, and to give me a chance to sit down for a moment, did you read that little sentence that was buried down in the stories about the budget? It said that $42½ wouldn't be enough, really. We'll go an additional five billion in the red . . . regardless.

Senators Ought To Be Careful

I can't help it if I am a day late with this piece about the budget; I read it, all five pounds, nine ounces of it, and while this took time I did learn where the 42 billions are going. First off I wish those heavyweight Senators would sit down a little more gently in their mahogany chairs. President Truman had budgeted $18,000 for repairing their furniture. He also reports that it's going to cost $5,400,000 for patching up the White House, including $5,000 for, and I quote, "printing." What has to be printed for shoring up a house with bulgy walls I would not know.

The President, who is a forgiving soul, wants $12,530 to support the Fine Arts Commission, which last was in the news when it advised him not to build a back porch on the Executive mansion.

He is seeking $112,300 to investigate earthquakes, $266,931 to ditto sheep and goats, and $173,500 to study honey bees. His agriculture boys also have a scheme to get automobile tires from cows. They're working on making synthetic rubber from milk, but try as I would I couldn't discover what it will cost. All I got for this effort was red-rimmed eyes.

For the Veep's limousine Mr. Truman wants $5,480; to keep the senatorial subway trains running, $2,600, and to build an Arctic health institute in Alaska, $6,450,000. He needs $860,000 to control white-fringe beetles, $32,800 to educate congressional pages, $275 for streetcar fares of the gardeners at the Botanic Gardens, and $546,350 to pay the wages of Federal Court criers.

For the Atomic Energy Commission, which already has 2,082 automobiles, buses and trucks, he expects to buy 339 more. The Government Printing Office must have $16,250,000 for printing such things as the budget, itself, while the Post Office Department needs $13,868,200 for supplies, including penpoints that sputter.

Mr. Truman wants $1,512,228 for investigating fish, $56,793 for protecting birds, $584,789 for protecting Alaskan seals and $37,650 for investigating these same beasts. For catching mail robbers and those who send infernal machines by parcel post, the President is asking for $85,000 in reward money. Last year he wanted only $70,000 for this purpose, thus indicating he is pessimistic about stamping out burglary.

The President hopes to donate $280 to the International Whaling Commission. He announces that he already has paid $14,600,000 damages for bombs dropped by mistake during the war on Switzerland; that he needs $6,000 to fulfill peace treaties with the Seneca Indians of New York, and that he figures it'll cost $10,000,000 to control forest fires.

He's asking for $1,700,000 to buy special paper for dollar bills and $23,816,511 for printing those pretty pictures on them. He needs $500 for buying samples for the District of Columbia Alcoholic Beverage Control Board and $41,300 to pay the capital's dogcatchers and deck them in new uniforms.

In 1951 Mr. Truman expects to manufacture 380,000,000 pennies at a cost of $703,100; he's also going to make a lot of nickels, dimes and half dollars, but the pennies, being by far the most numerous, are the costliest.

These many years since I have been straining my eyes on the small type in his budget, the President always has asked for $30 for transportation of things at the White House. Never a mention of what things. This year he isn't planning to move anything and it looks like we taxpayers have saved 30 bucks.

This cheered me considerably until I looked at the Navy's needs; it owns a lot of things and it intends to spend $75,000,000 transporting them.

'Plan' Would Protect Employees

Opposition to the Local Government Commission's "Plan of Improvement" for Atlanta and Fulton County is almost certain to come from many city and county employees of governmental departments which would be consolidated under the plan. This seems likely to come particularly from those employees who are afraid they might lose their jobs, as well as others who may be capable workers, happy in their present positions and well satisfied with their present department heads or bosses.

In the "Plan of Improvement," however, the Commission has made every effort to protect the job rights of employees who would be affected by the consolidation or curtailment of services.

At the same time, the Commission has sought "to assure the taxpayers that unnecessary positions will subsequently be eliminated."

The jobs of all workers, however, would be protected for a period of at least six months after the consolidation of departments.

The plan calls for regular full-time employees with specific minimum service records to be transferred immediately and automatically to the pay roll of the receiving department.

No transferred employee would suffer a decrease in salary as a result of transfer, and all transferred employees would be fully protected as to seniority, pension fund rights and other personnel rights.

All transferred employees would immediately be assigned to the department in the receiving government corresponding to the one from which they were transferred. So far as possible, they would be assigned to positions similar to those which they previously held.

A procedure would be set up to determine the number of unnecessary positions, if any, in new or consolidated departments. Following this procedure, the chief personnel officer of each government would prepare reduction-in-force lists on which each employee in the affected positions would be rated according to seniority, efficiency and veteran's status.

Those with the lowest ratings would be notified of their possible separation from the government. They would be given top priority, however, for any vacancies for which they are qualified occurring elsewhere in the government.

If not placed after six months following the effective date of consolidation (during which period they would remain on the pay roll with full seniority rights), their employment would be terminated. They would continue to enjoy priority for subsequent placement in the government, however.

The Commission stipulated, however, that "nothing in these policies would affect the existing rights of employing or supervising officers to dismiss employees for inefficiency, incompetence or other grounds set forth in existing laws and regulations."

Any employee notified that he is scheduled for termination because of reduction-in-force would have the right, however, to appeal to the government's personnel board for a review of his status.

The Commission strongly recommends that a joint committee of the Fulton County Civil Service Board and the Atlanta Personnel Board be set up to develop a uniform merit system.

"Work on this uniform personnel system should begin immediately," the Commission said, "even before the submission of the over-all Plan of Improvement to a vote to the people." Such a uniform plan would not become effective, however, "unless and until approved by the General Council and the County Commission."

Of the approximately 7,500 employees of the city and county governments, only about 3,200 are now covered by the regular merit systems.

As another benefit to employees, the Commission urges a study of the seven pension plans now in operation, with a view toward eventually developing a single actuarily sound plan to cover both the city and county workers. Another aim of this study would be to ascertain the possible future cost to taxpayers of present pension liabilities.

For a Sensible Tax Program

(Rockmart Journal)

The report of the Talmadge Tax Committee which virtually killed the hope for tax revision this year came as no surprise. The group did exactly as so many others through the years have done. Keeping a political ear to the ground, they let generalities destroy any specific proposal that any individual member might have had. Had 1950 not been a big election year, the Committee might have been a little more audacious.

The Journal is looking forward to the day when a sensible tax program is put forward which will ditch the present antiquated system, include a sales tax which will let everyone who receives advantages of State services help pay, and provide fewer taxes and less duplication.

He may not be elected to a second term, but we are looking for that Governor who will tell the people that they must pay for the services the government renders.

Georgia's Trucks Don't Travel Free!

Their gasoline and license taxes alone pay twice the cost of highway maintenance

Some people have the mistaken idea that trucks travel the highways free! But look at the facts:

In 1949 Georgia spent approximately $6,000,000 to maintain its 14,386 miles of highways. Georgia trucks paid about $12,000,000 in gasoline and license taxes alone—or about twice the cost of highway maintenance!

More than one-third of Georgia's total income is paid by highway users—automobiles, busses, and trucks. And of these millions of dollars, Georgia trucks pay nearly one third! The amount of tax on a single highway freight truck runs as high as $2,750 a year.

The special taxes are just about one half of the trucking industry's tax bill. Georgia truck owners pay all other normal County, City, State and Federal taxes paid by other businesses.

In short—Georgia's trucks are paying their fair share of the tax load . . . more than paying their way . . . helping to build a better, more prosperous Georgia.

CHILDREN'S BENEFACTOR

Mrs. Laurie Webster 'Civic' Woman of Year

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Mrs. Laurie Davis Webster, whose inspired leadership in things horticultural has made hundreds of Georgia children healthier, has been named Atlanta's "Woman of the Year in Civic Service" for 1949.

Long active in local, State and national garden organizations, Mrs. Webster was cited particularly for two notable achievements:

1. She was, and is, directly responsible for planting a vegetable garden at Egleston Memorial Hospital for Children, providing fresh, nutritious foods for the young patients.

2. She inaugurated and still directs the Atlanta Camellia Show, entire proceeds of which go to support the hospital garden.

As self-effacing as she is enterprising, Mrs. Webster insists:

"In everything I've done, I've been ably assisted by all the 122 garden clubs in Atlanta comprising 5,000 women. I feel this honor should be shared with them."

Judges pointed out this was the first time "a woman whose chief interests are horticulture and gardening has received this honor."

Jackson F. Moore, Chairman of the Civic Service Committee, said Mrs. Webster, as Egleston's Hospital Chairman of the City's garden clubs had created the means of giving children "proper nourishment which otherwise probably would have been impossible."

Atlanta garden clubs started the Egleston project six years ago during the wartime shortage. Hardly a day has passed that Mrs. Webster has failed to visit the garden and supervise the planting, cultivation and harvest.

Beans, corn, potatoes, cabbages, collards, squash, onions, lettuce, parsley, peas—these are just a few of the foods produced by the garden clubs on an acre of land behind the hospital.

Mrs. Webster started the annual Atlanta Camellia Show for the benefit of the hospital in 1946—and will serve as the show's General Chairman for the fifth time when it is held Feb. 4 and 5.

Mrs. Webster served for several years as President of the Women's Auxiliary of Egleston Hospital. WOTY judges said it was "mainly through her efforts that the hospital was able to continue to function at full strength in spite of a tremendously increased budget."

Nationally known both as an exhibitor and judge at flower shows, she has won many blue ribbons. She is Past President and an active worker in the Peachtree Garden Club; she now serves as Georgia Chairman of Conservation for the Garden Club of America.

Judges, besides Moore, included Jack Adair, Philip Alston, Jr., Jesse Draper, Clark Howell, William A. Parker, Harry Sommers and R. Clyde Williams. The WOTY selections, sponsored this year by Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, will be climaxed at a banquet Jan. 25, when THE Woman of the Year will be announced.

Homestead Proposal Scored by City Leaders

If a $2,000 homestead exemption were applied on the eligible 30,000 owner-occupied housing units as proposed for Atlanta by the Local Government Commission, the city treasury would lose upward of $800,000 a year in receipts, city administration leaders said yesterday.

Although no exact figures are available and city and Fulton tax authorities said it would take months to compile accurate records, officials estimated the exemption would cost at least $800,000 a year; absorption of which the Government Commission suggests should be attempted by hiking tax rates.

City leaders have advanced several reasons for this suggestion.

One is it might induce citizens living in the 80-odd square miles of territory which the Commission proposes be annexed to Atlanta to vote for extension of the city limits. Another is homestead exemptions would apply throughout Atlanta and Fulton County. A third is that when, as and if a merger of the Atlanta and Fulton County Governments is effected, the tax problem already would be simplified to that extent.

Atlanta officials for the most part were puzzled about allowing the exemption and then turning around and making it up by raising the tax rate. They all agreed that unexempted properties would carry the lion's share of any rate increase and most of them are convinced a soak-the-thrifty policy cannot long continue because the time will come when it will not pay to save for investment.

City leaders, however, for the most part, were sympathetic towards the report. They hailed the projected extension of the city limits as "vital to Atlanta's future growth and development."

Aid Finances In State Go on Monthly Basis

Gov. Talmadge today places the financing of his emergency aid program on a month-to-month basis to avoid an anticipated cutback in the stop-gap aid to schools, health, public welfare and highways.

Talmadge ordered the action as State Auditor B. E. Thrasher reported that not enough additional revenue is on hand to finance the expanded State services on a quarterly basis.

Thrasher said $2,306,810.89 additional money was on hand in the State treasury Jan. 1. The expanded services program for the entire January, February, and March quarter would require $5,050,000.

Talmadge allocated $1,687,000 to finance the emergency aid program in January. This leaves only $600,000 ahead to pay for the February program.

Thrasher reported that State income has increased $6,252,826 since July 1, 1949. Normally, $10,000,000 would have been required to finance the stop gap aid program through Jan. 1. But a $6,000,000 surplus left over from the last fiscal year enabled the program to go this far.

Additional aid allotted this month included:

Education Department — $715,000; teacher retirement, $34,000; highways, $417,000; university system, $84,000; public health, $84,000; public welfare, $333,998, and Confederate pensions, $17,000.

State Sets Port Work With $4,500,000 RFC Loan

By WELLINGTON WRIGHT

Armed with a tentative $4,500,000 loan by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in Washington, the Georgia Ports Authority is making plans today to begin large-scale development of the Port of Savannah.

The RFC has approved the loan provided the Georgia Supreme Court rules it valid. D. Leon Williams, Acting Executive Director of the Georgia Ports Authority, said the first step will be to obtain this court ruling. Then, he said that the Authority will speed improvements already planned.

"It is expected that 15 months after construction has begun," he explained, "a substantial portion of the facilities will be in operation."

These facilities will include: Construction of 2,100 feet of docks and transit sheds, enough to berth four of the largest modern cargo ships at the same time; construction of modern grain elevators; refrigerated storage for perishable farm commodities, and the installation of every type of service required by ships while in port, including dining facilities and recreational areas for crews of ships in port.

The RFC loan bears four percent interest and is to be liquidated within 35 years. These port improvements will center around the old Savannah Quartermaster Depot which Gov. Talmadge purchased in November, 1948, for the State of Georgia from the War Assets Administration for $808,100.

The Governor hailed the RFC loan as "welcome news to the people of Georgia."

"Initiation of this development program for a great State port at Savannah," he said, "augues well for the future prosperity of every man, woman and child in Georgia."

The old Savannah Quartermaster Depot contains 2,000,000 square feet of floor space, railroad trackage and 200 acres of industrial sites located on the Savannah River. The Georgia Ports Authority has already rented more than 700,000 square feet of floor space here at $633,936 a year.

In addition, the Authority has already installed a modern cotton compress and can receive and store "certificated" cotton controlled by the New York Cotton Exchange.

Gov. Talmadge said that the grain elevators to be installed at Savannah will serve "the needs of our rapidly expanding livestock industry."

In connection with the grain elevators, W. H. Bedford, Manager of the facility at Savannah, said that the Georgia Ports Authority already has executed a contract with the Commodity Credit Corporation for the storage of up to 10,000,000 bushels of grain at Savannah.

Bedford also said that the port facility has received a marine insurance classification which rates it "next to the top."

With the development of the Port of Savannah, the Governor said that many national industrial concerns are already inquiring for warehouse leases and for industrial sites on the land adjoining the old Quartermaster Depot.

Members of the Georgia Ports Authority are: James D. Robinson, Jr., of Atlanta; Chairman; Peter Roe Nugent, of Savannah, Vice Chairman; M. M. Monroe, of Waycross; and James W. Smith, of Albany, Secretary and Treasurer.

Tetley Tea Plans Savannah Plant

Tetley Tea Company, Inc., New York, has acquired a 43,000 square foot site in Savannah and will open a new factory there.

The Savannah plant, made necessary by expanded business, will increase the company's capacity 50 percent, the Tetley Company says.

Savannah was chosen, added the Company, because of the continued expansion of the company's business throughout the Southern States.

Leased from the Georgia Ports Authority, the waterfront property was the first transaction of its kind handled by the new Authority.

Business Must Serve People, GPC Head Says

SAVANNAH — (AP) — Business must fulfill its obligations to the people if it is to service in a world becoming "more and more socialistic," Savannah Kiwanians were told by C. B. McManus, president of the Georgia Power Company of Atlanta.

"Criticizing business has always been a favorite American pastime," he said, but during the past two decades this criticism has been transformed into action, some of which, frankly, has been punitive in nature."

The grounds of the criticism of business, according to McManus, were that it did not fairly spread the rewards of labor; that it did not provide sufficient security for its workmen; that it did not contribute enough to the social advancement of its people.

Also, people have often thought that "the government could do it better," he said.

This criticism has gone too far, McManus said. "In fact, so far that I consider the principal obligation of business today is to convince the American people that business should continue to operate under the free enterprise system."

Herman L. Fellton's Life Is Constant Rat Race

By BETSY HOPKINS

Herman L. Fellton's life is a rat race.

The Dick Tracy of the rodent world, Fellton is technical director for an exterminating company, and devotes his time to tracking down filthy rats of the underground.

He has to match wits with them every day, and has become an expert in rat habits, hideouts and diets.

"A smart rat is wary of traps and bait," says Fellton. "One should constantly change the position of the trap, the poison and the food that contains the poison. Rats get trapwise quickly. Usually if you don't catch one on the first try you never will."

"The trap," he continues, "should be placed so that the rat gets to it before he reaches his normal food supply."

According to Fellton, many rats become immune to poison by taking doses that are too small to kill them.

There just isn't any sure-fire way to kill a rat as yet, but there may be something coming up. Fellton speaks confidently of Compound 42, a new materiel that kills rats painlessly through internal bleeding, and is relatively harmless to other animals.

But keeping rats around might not be such a bad idea. Some of the rodents discovered in some cold units have fur two inches long. "It's sleek enough to make a fine fur coat," says Fellton.

So if a rat gets cold enough he can keep a woman warm. The secret is getting the rats out of the pantry into the icebox. It'll give the rats a chance at sweet revenge. Once they adorn a woman they can be the trapper, not the trapped.

For Peck and Peck—Our brand-new neighbors, who will open their doors next Monday morning.

For a long time we've been eagerly anticipating the coming of Peck and Peck to join us in our Uptown Shopping Center. Even our Peachtree Window Mannequins have been excited over the prospect of these new friends. To express their sincere feelings and the sentiment of the entire Franklin Simon family, the girls have decided that in our windows next week they will all face Peck and Peck and extend their hands, laden with roses, toward our new neighbors.

"A happy welcome, Pals," they say. "The more the merrier!"

Grace Barton, our dress buyer, returned recently from a very successful buying trip in New York and all the exciting lovely things she bought (with you and you and you in mind) are now beginning to come in. We can hardly wait for the express each morning we're so eager to unpack and view the newest arrivals of our crop of early spring blooms.

Clothes seem prettier and more wearable this season than they have been in years. All of us here at Franklin Simon are terribly enthusiastic and we're just dying for you to come in and join with us in oohing and ahing!

But that's only half of our "travel" news. Martha Fidell, Franklin Simon's street floor accessory buyer, flew to New York Friday to comb the Market and send us air express the cream of the crop in the way of bags, jewelry, blouses, gloves, flowers, scarfs and all the important small perfections, the accoutrements, that revive old costumes and make new ones.

So be sure to come in to see us for your first peep of the season outfit and if you will give us a chance we'll guarantee that the flowers that bloom in the spring tra la won't hold a candle to you, tra la!

The Glass of Fashion

By MAYNITA GERRY
Constitution Fashion Editor

NEW YORK—Your chances of striding confidently into Spring this year are exceedingly slim. So slim, in fact, that you'll be lucky to find "standing room only" in some of the new skirts.

As for running for the bus or stepping briskly into a taxi—these are out unless you look well in bandages from the hips down. In case of fire, break out of your skirt first.

What was the exception yesterday has become the rule today among the Spring and Summer fashion collections of Christial Dior, Montesano and Pruzen, Maurice Rentner and Hattie Carnegie being shown by the New York Dress Institute.

Slim skirts take various and often devious forms, but that they have now taken form is definite. Many of Dior's new slim skirts are little more than tubes, opened at both ends. With these last year's fullness have moved up to make what is called the bloused bodice and on up to mushroom sleeves that suddenly spring out from dropped shoulder yokes. The effect is more 1900 than 1920.

One clever subterfuge (that may or may not be dropped later on) that many of the designers are employing to bring back the slim, straight skirt, is some type of fluid overskirt that creates the illusion of fullness, without the freedom.

Maurice Rentner's current trick is a slim, taut underskirt worn under a long tunic dress that reaches to within about two or three inches of the hemline and is slit front and back from the waist down.

Dior does it with what might be the last of the floating panels. These are slit, as many as three and four and six times, over-skirts that seem to swirl and move in the desired undulating motion despite the cramped position of your legs.

Suit jacket lengths run merrily up and down the scale, from short, tight waist length (and hugging) ones to long hipline ones. The latter generally bursting forth into a gathered or flared peplum, below a tightly belted waistline. Occasionally, especially at Dior's, this peplum is slit at either hip and is longer in back than in front. Again, the same general effect is achieved with a loose short sack coat that blouses above and below the belt.

The padding in suit shoulders is brief but succinct for a sharp, clean cut line across the top, aided from time to time with shoulder yokes that extend to and, occasionally, beyond the shoulder.

A few of the waistlines have skidded slightly in the past 24 hours, but none of them has actually dropped. On the contrary waistlines at Carnegie's, Montesano's, Rentner's and Dior's were all in the last stages of underdevelopment. Dior's use of the polished kid or patent leather contour belt, with few exceptions, throughout his entire collection gives brittle, bound look to even the soft sheer silk organdies and chiffons as well as short lace evening clothes.

Sleeves are completely disarming in that you're never quite prepared for them. Some seem to melt and flow smoothly into the shoulder, others swell suddenly out of a low shoulder yoke, often in suits, with a wide welt seam and some slip unobtrusively down and blouse just above the elbow, then expire quietly somewhere along the forearm.

The best example of the last sleeve appears in Montesano's tulip sleeve, which seems to be two funnel-shapped pieces of fabric, joined at the widest point, creating a balloon effect. This appears on a number of slim suits with nipped waistlines as well as many short clipped fleece toppes, called lanol, of the consistency of a well-turned omelette in various neutral shades from egg-shell to curry, as well as this year's bright tones of flame, poppy and black ginger—in either case the impact is the same.

Jeweled touches appear with equal indiscrimination on day, afternoon and evening clothes and all fabrics from sheer wool to sheerer organdy, chiffon, handkerchief linen. Occasionally this is nothing more than a well-placed rhinestone stud, blinking from beneath the pocket flap of a suit jacket, which Hattie Carnegie did of navy wool with rounded lapels and on three-quarter sleeves and collars and cuffs of white pique. Rentner equipped many of his suits with belt slots, around the bottom of which are small jeweled crescents. And Dior fastened detachable white pique or starched linen bands into the neckline and down the front fly of his short linen and taffeta dinner dresses with large rhinestone studs. These dresses, of course, also come equipped with small, crisply tailored jackets, making them eligible for any type of daytime wear.

Since there is probably one shirtwaist dress in your future, let us tell you about one of Dior's. It is sheer dusty rose silk organdy that seems to envelop you like a rose-tinted mist. The waist is full and bloused and the skirt is gathered with side seams pulled toward the front and concealed under loose panels that drop from the belted waist to the hemline.

And if it so happens that you find yourself casting about for one of the new middy dresses, Dior can help you here too. The one that is stamped indellibly in our mind is butterscotch linen that appears to be divided into two parts, but isn't. The top is a deep square yoke that extends almost to the waistline with a deep square collar. The skirt is straight from the hips down with a wide welt seam to give the appearance of a cuff, attached to a tightly gathered strip that fills the area from the body yoke down. Through the center of the gathered detail winds a black calf belt. If it so happens also that you don't feel too familiar with some of the fabrics, that will be entirely understandable. This is the first year for some of them, such as lanol and worsted silk, a light vapor silk, like pongee, in soft, wash tones, shanolin and new, very crisp, very sheer woolens.

But you should have no trouble recognizing linen, and no problem finding it. It is in every collection, either alone in one weight, combined in two weights or contrasting with another texture—cotton, wool, velvet.

LET'S SEE NOW

Only as Old As You Feel

By DORIS LOCKERMAN
Constitution Associate Editor

It is hard to find a woman who has defied the implacable hand of time, but it can be done. Occasionally one darts into sight, eternally youthful, audaciously confessing to being 70 or so, with a mischievous daring that flips a finger into the face of the years.

Lillian Gilbreth, the time-motion engineer and mother of 12, is such a woman, and a visitor to Atlanta this week is such a person.

Manka Rubinstein, sister of the famous cosmetic queen, Helena Rubinstein, is as different from Dr. Gilbreth as day from night, on the surface. Where the good doctor has a soft, pink, humorous, patient face, Mme. Rubinstein is the picture of chic. Her black hair glistens in a huge chignon, her dark eyes shine with health, her chin is outthrust with never a flaccid muscle and her waistline is young and lithe.

Mme. Rubinstein bares her creamy shoulders and the firm curve of her bosom in a frankly seductive gold satin dress by Robert Piquet, of Paris, encircles her neck with a bib of emeralds, matching the huge emerald ruby and sapphire rings and earrings, while Dr. Gilbert steps briskly along in a sedate black and white print, a little black hat perched on her white knot of hair.

Yet they have much in common.

Both are interested, animated conversationalists, complimenting their companions with complete attention, responsiveness, remembering names and occupations and quickly picking up strands of talk and weaving them into bright tapestries.

Mme. Rubinstein, one of a strong, vital family of eight, is an exponent of exercise, diet, health, grooming. She is the first woman I have heard admit that she does not choose clothing for its "becomingness," but for its shock, its stark dramatic effect.

"I choose it. I put it on. I wear it, and I forget it."

Her philosophy toward dining, drinking, health is flexible, fitting the lives of her doctor husband, their children and grandchildren.

"I hope to be agreeable," she said. "When I am invited to a fine meal, I eat it heartily. Then I eat lightly the next several meals, when it is more convenient. I do the same thing with a cocktail. If I enjoy an aperitif to be sociable, I am somewhat careful later to balance it off with juices for a day or so. I do not discuss it. One must live, and enjoy living."

At Davison's, where Mme. Rubinstein has been this week, she has let her audiences in on the ultimate secret of her amazing youth, and in that she and Dr. Gilbreth are one:

"Look forward," she has said. "Keep interested in everything. Laugh, sing, whistle, keep clean inside and outside. Cultivate calm, repose. Conserve energy. It is aging to be in a turmoil. Sleep. It is the great renewer of energy. You are only as old as you look, think and feel.

Trend?

With Dorothy Kirsten, the opera singer, announcing she is in love with a married man, following on the heels of Ingrid and Gigi and the others, I'm afraid there is an impetuous trend in holy matrimony.

Do you suppose the day will come when our society pages will read:

"Mr. and Mrs. John Dolittle announce the engagement of their daughter, Mrs. James Stimpson, wife of James Stimpson, to Reginald Bellflower, whose wife is the former Jean Darey.

"Wedding plans will be announced later, after Mrs. Bellflower has been informed of the romance and has given her consent to a divorce.

"Meanwhile, the couple will be at home in their chalet in France, awaiting the arrival of their blessed event."

New York Sidelight

Maynita Gerry, Constitution Fashion Editor, who writes even better ad lib than with a script, sent the following memo from the Waldorf:

"Tell any of those, including you and me, who have always regarded Garbo as aloof and disdainful that I saw her, meandering (not striding) along Fifth Avenue being actually coy. Perhaps she has reached the dangerous age—because she was with a man at least half that age, a big, handsome individual with blondined hair. She was gazing trustfully up in his face, wearing one of her usual inverted wind-funnel hats, a wrinkled, khaki-colored raincoat and low roughed suede, thick-soled boots of mustard yellow. She had the outline of a tent, but her face is still terrific, even with mascara spread like a coat of tar on her eyelashes. Of course her brand of glamour caught me when I was young and impressionable—and I've never gotten over it."

Annual Meet

VIENNA—The Dooly County Chapter of the American Red Cross will have its annual meeting Thursday at the Court House.

Dr. Brady

Questions and Answers

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

I have a murmur of the heart. How serious is that? Do I need to be on a salt free diet? (Mrs. D. H.)

Answer—Come, come, now, let's try to be sensible. On p. 7 of the CIV-D booklet (about heart and artery troubles) I say: A murmur alone by no means indicates endocarditis, valvular or other heart trouble, for a murmur may occur from simple anemia and in other conditions where there is no question of heart disease. If you want the booklet send 25 cents and stamped self-addressed envelope.

Blue Cheese

Food expert claims blue cheese is unfit for a human being to eat. (Mrs. C. K.)

Answer—It is good to eat and good for the eater.

Mrs. Echols To Speak

Mrs. John F. Echols will conduct an advisory discussion on "New Articles of Current Events" when members of the Creative Writing Group of the American Association of University Women meet today at 10:30 a. m. with Mrs. Walter M. Wheeler at her home, 2869 Lookout Pl., N. E.

Living Words

"Evergreens are said to be associated with death as emblems of immortality, and this is true. But there is another and perhaps a deeper symbol: that all seasons are alike to Him, as to them."—Richard Garrett.

SALLY FORTH SAYS:

Dr. and Mrs. Sage Enamoured With Life in Puerto Rico

Dr. and Mrs. Dan Y. Sage have just returned from San Juan, Puerto Rico, where they had the time of their lives as guests of their son and daughter, Lt. and Mrs. Robert McKnight, who reside at the U. S. Naval Base.

This was the Sages' first visit to the McKnights in Puerto Rico and they were enamoured with everything—the mountains surrounding San Juan, the sapphire blue of the ocean, the brilliantly hued tropical flowers and the McKnights' attractive home, equipped with every conceivable convenience. And the trip by air from New York took only six and one-half hours!

Lt. and Mrs. McKnight entertained at an elaborate party for their parents and the quartet spent several days in the Virgin Islands.

In addition to such gaieties as lunching and dining at the Beach Club, Fort Brooke Army Club and Raimey Field Army Post, Dr. and Mrs. Sage turned Izaak Waltons and tried their luck at deep sea fishing.

Dr., Mrs. Bivings Take Caribbean Cruise

Speaking of delightful trips, Dr. and Mrs. Lee Bivings are just back from one that was brimming over with fascinating experiences.

The Atlantans sailed three weeks ago for a Caribbean cruise which took them to Havana, Cuba, Honduras and to Guatemala for their second visit.

In Honduras, they took a trip through the jungles, which was alive with monkeys, hanging by their tails from limbs of tremendous mahogany trees.

Dr. and Mrs. Bivings were deeply impressed with the prosperity which seemed to abound on every hand.

Bride-Elect To Wear Mrs. Mitchell's Dress

When Betty Ann Boyet is married to Billy Campbell on Feb. 4 at the Cathedral of St. Philip, she will wear the blush satin wedding gown which belongs to the groom-elect's sister, Mrs. Wharton Mitchell.

Her blush tulle veil will be attached to a matching real lace Juliet cap and she will carry a real lace handkerchief which her mother, Mrs. Houston Boyet, carried when she was married.

Betty Ann and Billy have received a number of handsome wedding gifts but none more treasured than the antique crystal compote which was sent them by the bride-elect's cousin, Lee Stapp, who attends Princeton University. Lee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Stapp, are former Atlantans.

JULIA CAMPBELL CHOSEN

Atlantan's Kin in N. Y. Play

Julia Campbell, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Campbell, of Bronxville, N. Y., has been chosen as understudy for the child's part in Katherine Cornell's play, "That Lady," which is one of Broadway's top productions.

Julia has been studying dancing for several years under a well-known teacher in New York City and has shown promise of great talent. She frequents the theater often for rehearsals of her three-minute part in Miss Cornell's play.

This talented New Yorker is the granddaughter of Eugene R. Black, President of the World Bank, and the great-granddaughter of Mrs. Eugene R. Black, Sr., of this city.

Gray Lady Service Planned

Mrs. W. W. Ford, chairman of the Atlanta Red Cross Gray Lady Service, announced the opening of a class Jan. 24 to train women to help in occupational therapy and social service at Lawson Veterans Hospital.

Volunteers need not have any previous experience. Women who complete the course satisfactorily will work in Lawson one day a week from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Social Service Gray Ladies will interview patients to familiarize them with the hospital. Gray Ladies helping in occupational therapy will teach leather work, stencilling and plastic work.

Women wishing to give their time as Gray Ladies may call Mrs. Ford, AT. 1601 or CH. 9740. Gray Ladies are volunteer, not paid workers.

Nickel Plate Strength Steadies Stock Market

NEW YORK—(UP)—Strength in New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad steadied the stock market in the last half hour of Tuesday's session after an earlier decline.

Several other rail shares turned up with Nickel Plate. Industrials also resisted further pressure and many came back from their lows. Traders continued to buy selected issues in the utility section.

In the first part of the session profit-taking brought a majority of stocks down fractions. A few lost a point or more. While this was going on, traders turned their buying attention to the tires and special issues. Childs Company issues were strong and active.

The reversal of trend stemmed out of the ability of the market to resist pressure of realizing.

At the height of the early selling special pressure centered on tobaccos, oils, and textiles. Reflecting further buying by the general public, the low-priced issues featured in volume. Opening deals were made on blocks ranging to 13,300 shares in Packard.

Trading lightened on the decline although it was very active in the first part of the session when the tape fell behind the actual market by a minute at 10:10 a. m.

There was little in the news to sway prices and traders played the tape rather than the outside developments. Demand for tires reflected belief the group was behind the market on the basis of a favorable outlook for the industry announced recently by its leaders.

Rails also responded to technical influences of price. In connection with the activity in Childs, old merger rumors were brought out, but given little credence in brokerage circles.

Nickel Plate closed at a new high for more than a year at 105, up 7 points, and lifted the railroad average to a new high since November of 1948.

Delaware, Lackawanna & Western closed at 8⅞, up ½; Norfolk & Western 49¾, up ½; Baltimore & Ohio 11½, up ¼, and New York Central 13⅜, up ¼. A weak spot, Union Pacific, finished at 87, off 1⅛ points.

United States Rubber featured the tires. It closed at 40½, up 2¼. Goodrich finished at 74⅜, up 1⅜; Goodyear 47¼, up 1¼, and General Tire 21½, up ½.

New Tele-Tone Sets Introduced

Electric Sales and Service Company, 209 Walton St., N. W., has introduced new 1950 Tele-Tone television receivers, led by a 10-inch table model at $149.95, a 12½-inch table model at $179.95, and a 15-inch consolette at $279.95.

The 12½-inch tube set has a built-in antenna, a new long-range tuner and a supersensitive circuit which, Tele-Tone claims, will make possible reception in many weak signal areas formerly not clear in reception.

Also emphasized was a 16-inch console model, pegged at an industry low of $289.95.

Dodge Bares Cuts On Truck Prices

DETROIT—(AP)—Price cuts of $40 to $125 on Dodge trucks have been announced by Dodge Division of Chrysler Corp.

The cuts, effective Tuesday, are $40 on the three-quarter ton models and $125 on the three and one-half ton vehicle.

SUGAR FUTURES

NEW YORK —(AP)— Domestic sugar futures were steady Tuesday on Cuban operator buying, reflecting a steadier raw market.

World sugar futures moved higher in the face of the strong demand for Cuban sugar in the world market. Operators were reported bidding 4.55 cents a pound f.o.b. for world Cuban raws. In the domestic market a Southern cane refiner bought cargo of prompt shipment Cubas at 5.72 cents a pound delivered. Dealers figured this an equivalent to 5.74 cents a pound at New York. The last price paid by an Eastern refiner was reported at 5.65 cents a pound, although operators were believed willing to pay 5.70 cents a pound for sugar. Demand for refined was fair. Domestic sugar futures No. 6 closed 1 higher to 1 lower, sales 220 contracts.

COFFEE MARKET

NEW YORK—(AP)—Santos coffee futures were steady Tuesday on trade and Brazilian buying. Firmness in spot coffee situation accounted for fresh buying in futures. Dealers reported spot coffees were higher on Brazilian types. Colombian coffees were also steady. A leading coffee roaster announced a 2 cents a pound increase in wholesale prices effective tomorrow. Coffee spot Santos No. 4 closed at 49¾n. Santos Burbons 3s at 51.10-60a and 5s 48.60-49.10a. Santos "S" futures closed 5 to 20 lower. Sales 152 contracts.

N. Y. Cotton Irregular In Active Dealings

NEW YORK — (AP) — Cotton futures were irregular in moderately active dealings Tuesday. Most interest centered in old crop deliveries where mill buying and covering against export sales were offset by liquidation in the nearby March delivery. There was some scattered profit taking and hedging in evidence. A leading spot firm sold about 3,000 bales of nearby March against purchases of the May, 1951, delivery at a difference of three points.

Cotton futures moved into new high ground for day on late aggressive trade buying and short covering.

Futures closed 5 to 40 cents a bale higher than the previous close.

Short Covering Advances New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Cotton futures declined here early Tuesday but rallied later on trade buying and short covering. Closing prices were steady, five cents to 30 cents a bale higher. Trading was quiet.

Strength in other commodity markets caused sympathetic buying in cotton. Profit-taking from the long side and hedge selling were responsible for the early dip.

Middling 15/16-inch spot cotton was unchanged at 30.65 cents a pound. Local sales totaled 758 bales.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON

Reported Tuesday by Atlanta's cotton exchange in co-operation with USDA.

Quotations are for mixed lots, equal to official standard, uncompressed in warehouses. Basis middling 15/16-inch, 31.50 per pound (up 5 from previous close). This is up 50 on New York March futures, which closed at 30.98. Number of bales purchased 996.

USDA—Atlanta spot cotton middling one-inch uncompressed, in warehouses Tuesday 32.75.

Athens spot coton middling, one inch and longer, 32.40.

Rome spot cotton, middling, one inch and longer, 32.60.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—The average price of middling 15-16ths-inch cotton Tuesday at 10 designated Southern spot markets was 20 cents a bale higher at 30.96 cents a pound; average for the past 30 market days 30.41; middling ⅞ths-inch average 29.48.

The Argentine Branches, like all other commercial banks in Argentina, by law receive and pay deposits only as Agent of the Central Bank of the Argentine Republic, and The First National Bank of Boston has no liability to depositors therefor. Such funds are included in the statement, inasmuch as the Branches service them as Agent. The offsetting account with the Central Bank, less liability to that bank for funds utilized in conducting the banking business under Argentine law, is contained in "Cash and Due from Banks."

W.R.Elsas Chosen Fulton Bag Head; Directors Same

William R. Elsas, for 25 years connected with the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills in many capacities, has been elected President of that company.

He succeeds Norman E. Elsas, now chairman of the board of directors to succeed Benjamin Elsas, elected chairman of the executive committee.

The board of directors announced these changes yesterday following its annual meeting. The board also re-elected the following officers:

Clarence E. Elsas, vice president; Jason M. Elsas, vice president, and E. A. Cronheim, secretary and treasurer.

The board of directors of the company remains unchanged. In addition to the foregoing officers, it includes: J. B. Cronheim, St. Louis, Mo., and John M. Slaton and G. L. Brogdon, both of Atlanta.

In reference to the changes made, the directors said:

"This change in the executive personnel of the company follows the practice which has long been understood to be desirable in giving younger men responsibility while the older members maintain their active relationship in the direction of company affairs and can offer such counsel and guidance as may be needed in day-to-day decisions."

First National Expands Official Staff

Emory L. Cocke, Vice President of Ashcraft-Wilkinson Company, has been appointed a Director of the First National Bank of Atlanta.

Emory L. Cocke

Appointment of Cocke and seven new assistant cashiers was announced yesterday by R. Clyde Williams, the bank's President, who said the staff's enlargement was occasioned by increased business.

During the past five years, the bank has paid dividends of $4,632,000; transferred $1,260,000 to reserves and added $2,550,000 to the capital account, Williams reported at the annual stockholders meeting Monday.

The seven new cashiers, elected at the meeting, are Joseph C. Bagwell, Jr., and Howard W. Shirley, of the bank's Peachtree at North Avenue branch; J. Marvin Adams, J. Dorris McClure and Robert J. McLeod, of the West End Branch, and Clarence R. Camp, Jr., and Edward F. Keen, Jr., of the Decatur branch.

Cocke, a native of Senoia, has been with Ashcraft - Wilkinson since 1919. He is also President of the Suni-Citrus Products Company of Haines City, Fla.; Vice President of the Exposition Cotton Mills here; President of the Interstate Mills, Cairo, Ill., and Director of the Planters Products Company, of Donalsonville, Ga.

Bagwell, who has been with the bank since 1926, is in charge of the Consumer Credit Department of the North Avenue branch; Shirley, also with the institution since 1926, is head teller at that branch.

McClure has been assistant manager of the West End branch since 1930 and Adams is head teller there. McLeod is assistant manager of the branch in charge of the Consumer Credit Department. Camp is assistant manager of the Decatur branch, and Keen went to that branch in November after being supervisor of the Auditing Department at the main bank.

In his annual report, Williams said $6,230,000 was paid out during the past five years in taxes and Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation assessment.

Charles H. Percy, Movie Equipment Maker, Stops Here

Charles Harting Percy, who rose from a newsboy to become, at 30, the president of a large motion picture equipment manufacturing company, was in Atlanta last night for a sales meeting with some 88 dealers in the area.

The young Chicogoan became President of the Bell and Howell Company last year after a swift rise from a company trainee endowed with a depression-founded drive to make money.

C. H. Percy

Former newsboy who fired furnaces, parked cars, "anything to make money," Chuck Percy caught the fancy of the motion picture equipment manufacturers after three Summers of work and efficiency ideas before he finished the University of Chicago. At Chicago, he said he had done all right by himself financially, putting in a fraternity co-operative buying plan among other odd jobs.

Upon graduation, the Company offered to double the salary any other company offered him. Modern business methods and efficiency ideas brought him a post on the board of directors at the age of 23.

A three-year stretch in the Navy followed, and he returned to the Company as director of industrial relations. The dynamic, yet unassuming young man rose to the presidency last year on the death of Joseph H. McNabb, who was head of the firm for 26 years. At the time of his elevation to the board, the average age of directors was over 60, his firm said. He was entertained at luncheon by Rich's yesterday.

PLYMOUTH SPECIAL DE LUXE FOUR-DOOR SEDAN FOR 1950

Restyled '50 Plymouths On View Here Tomorrow

Restyled for a more streamlined appearance, the 1950 Plymouth automobiles will go on display at dealers' showrooms here tomorrow.

Plymouth also reports mechanical improvements, increased safety and riding comfort to go along with the new styling lines that give the new models a longer and lower look.

In Detroit, D. S. Eddins, president of the Plymouth Division of Chrysler Corporation, said there would be no change in prices. Plymouth, he said, is absorbing current increases in manufacturing costs.

Plymouth's rear fenders have been restyled and lengthened. Club coupes and four-door sedans have larger rear windows. Overall width is increased slightly. Alterations to the rear deck impart a longer, heavier, road-hugging appearance to all models.

New grills on all nine models in the Special De Luxe and De Luxe lines are more massive, with two horizontal bars, a curved-down top member, and a single vertical bar at the center. The Plymouth name plate, in larger block letters, appears above the grille.

Front and rear tread have been increased. This is designed to increase stability, ease tire loading stress on curves and enhance the car's general appearance.

New models have larger bumpers front and real, further adding to the appearance of massiveness. Rear windows are 32 percent larger than those on previous models. Instrument panels have been redesigned, with gunmetal backgrounds on spun aluminum for gauge dials, speedometer, radio dial and clock. The gunmetal finish also is used on the radio grille screen.

Each new Plymouth is powered with a 97-horsepower engine with a 7 to 1 compression ratio.

Eddins announced these unchanged prices, all retail at the factory in Detroit and exclusive of Federal and local taxes: De Luxe 3-passenger coupe, $1,295; De Luxe Suburban, $1,740; De Luxe 2-door sedan, $1,410; De Luxe club coupe, $1,435; De Luxe 4-door sedan, $1,465; Special De Luxe 4-door sedan, $1,515; Special De Luxe convertible coupe, $1,875; Special De Luxe station wagon, $2,245.

The new cars will be on display at the following dealers: Belle Isle Motors, Inc., 131 W. Ponce de Leon Ave., Decatur; DeKalb Motor Company, 110 W. Court Square, Decatur; Farris Motor Company, 231 W. Ponce de Leon Ave., Decatur; Henry Motor Company, East Point; McClellan-Jackson Company, 500 N. Main St., East Point; Harry Sommers, Inc., 446 Spring St., N. W.; Victory Motors, Inc., 17 North Ave., N. E.; Wagstaff Motor Company, Inc., 887 Spring St., N. W.; Westbrook-Smith Motors, Ltd., East Point.

A&P Compromise Hinted by U. S.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The World-Telegram and Sun said the Justice Department does not insist on the break-up of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company but is ready to compromise its anti-trust suit.

It quotes J. Howard McGrath, U. S. Attorney General, as saying:

"Our only proviso is that some arrangement be made whereby the abuse of monopoly power (by the food chain) be ended forever."

The newspaper quoted McGrath as saying a consent decree would meet the Department's demands because "we have no desire to attack size as such."

The present suit, the paper quoted McGrath, was prompted by the A and P's "refusal to discuss sincerely" any plan under which it might maintain "its admitted efficiency without continuing to subvert the status and future of its competitors."

Trust Co. Adds One Million To Surplus

Directors of the Trust Company of Georgia have transferred $1,000,000 from undivided profits to surplus, increasing surplus from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000. Prior to this transfer, the undivided profits account stood at $2,338,382.15.

This action followed the fifty-ninth annual meeting of the stockholders at which John A. Sibley, Chairman of the Board of Directors, reported the consolidated net earnings of the Trust Company of Georgia and its wholly owned subsidiary, the Trust Company of Georgia Associates, for 1949 were $1,383,925.80, as compared with $1,202,876.73 for 1948.

Out of these earnings, the Trust Company of Georgia paid $720,000 in dividends and added $663,925 to the undivided profits of the two companies.

Sibley said that the bank's capital has remained at $2,000,000 since 1924, but that its surplus has been increased through transfers of undivided profits from $1,500,000 in 1933 to the present $6,000,000 figure.

In his report to the stockholders, Sibley called attention to the economic progress now under way in the industry and agriculture of Georgia. He said:

"Industrial expansion is general throughout the State and is not limited to larger centers of population. This is a fortunate circumstance, as, in addition to other advantages, it provides employment for many released through the mechanization of agriculture."

Sibley referred to the changeover in Georgia from row crops to pastures, livestock and trees and paid special tribute to E. F. Vickers, of Bainbridge, George Bazemore, of Waycross, and their associates in the Georgia Bankers' Association, for their efforts to devise a form of intermediate credit necessary to make this changeover effective.

"Your institution is actively engaged in encouraging and assisting in this change-over from row crops to conservation farming," he concluded. "This is a matter of great concern to our entire population, for under this improved system of farming our most precious natural resources, our soils and our water supply, will be improved and conserved.

"In many sections of the world, the aridity of the climate is a limiting factor upon production and industrial development. But in Georgia and in the Southeast, our ample rainfall, if held on the land, will not only increase the yield from the farms but will insure abundant and constant water supply which is also essential to large-scale industrial development."

Role of Labor In Price, Policy Predicted Here

The labor-management "partnership" will extend eventually to discussion of prices and business policies as well as wages.

The prediction was made here last night by William Gomberg, Director of the Management Engineering Department of the International Garment Workers Union, who pleaded that businessmen "accept the fact that they operate in an economy of administered prices."

The labor spokesman told the Atlanta Chapter of the Society for Advancement of Management that "many of us in the labor movement believe that we live in a price-administered economy where critical decisions are made by a small group of men in strategic positions of our key industries. We feel that decisions they make should be conditioned by what we feel is a progressive profit policy."

Gomberg said such a profit policy should be set to yield sufficient revenue for a gradual expansion of the production plant.

Asserting it is management's obligation to provide an expanding economy, Gomberg said the labor movement has a definite idea of the functional role of profits. "It demands that profits be measured on the basis of historical dollar cost so that financial statements at least supply the same facts to all people."

Furniture Group Elects Chief

CHICAGO—(AP)—Maurice Nee, a 34-year-old businessman from Washington, D. C., is the new head of the National Retail Furniture Association, elected yesterday at the annual Midwinter Home Furnishings Show.

Nee, of the P. J. Nee Company, Washington, heads the Retail Advisory Committee of the Department of Commerce.

The show opened Monday with the heaviest first-day registration in its history. It has two sections—the American Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart.

The American reported 7,870 buyers registered on the opening day, topping the prior peak of 7,400 on the first day of the 1948 market.

Total buyers registration at the American is expected to reach 22,000 before the Winter market ends Jan. 20.

Accountants Meet

Directors of the Atlanta Chapter, National Association of Cost Accountants, will meet at the Henry Grady Hotel today at 12:30.

Fulton Bares 12 Percent Earning Hike

The Fulton National Bank of Atlanta during 1949 had one of its best years from the standpoint of net earnings, Erle Cocke, the President, reported to stockholders yesterday.

Cocke said the gross earnings of the bank increased during the year from $2,310,417.89 in 1948 to $2,466,867.56 in 1949 and net earnings for the year were $504,379.10, or $3.36 per share on the $10 par value capital stock. These net earnings, he said, represent a 12.3 percent increase over 1948.

M. A. Ferst

Cocke also announced the election of M. A. Ferst, President of M. A. Ferst, Ltd., and Chairman of the Board of Scripto, Inc., to the Board of Directors of the Bank and also the promotion of two officers—J. Wallace Carpenter and Alex Lindholm—and the election of four additional officers—Charles R. McLaughlin, William W. Tucker, Charles M. Murphy and Douglas H. Symmers.

A native of Savannah, Ferst is a graduate of Georgia Tech. In addition to his business enterprises, he is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Georgia Tech Research Institute, and is active in the Atlanta YMCA, the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, the DeKalb County Chamber of Commerce, the American Chemical Society, the Georgia Engineering Society and the National Chemurgic Council. He is also a member of the American Arbitration Association, the National Association of Manufacturers and the Standard Town and Country Club of Atlanta. His wife is the former Miss Helen Montag and they have two children—Robert H. Ferst and Mrs. Walter L. Bloom.

Carpenter and Lindholm, promoted to Assistant Vice Presidents, have been with the bank for many years, Carpenter as Manager of the Credit Department and Lindholm in the Business Development Department. Both will remain in their respective departments.

McLaughlin, Tucker, Murphy and Symmers were promoted to the rank of Assistant Cashiers. McLaughlin is in the Candler Building Office, Tucker and Murphy in the Main Office and Symmers in the Peters Street Office.

First Load Sent With 'Package Freight' System

Atlanta merchants and distributors today were counting the benefits of a new method of shipping parcels inaugurated by the Atlanta Freight Bureau.

Announced last week, the new operation makes possible the combining of a number of high-rate, less-than-carload shipments into one freight car from New York to Atlanta. This gains the advantage of a lower carload rate on freight, at a considerable saving to receivers, said Eugene Hart, director of the Freight Bureau.

First shipment arrived Monday, a delivery on the third morning after loading in New York, where special arrangements were made by the Freight Bureau for collecting freight bound for Atlanta.

C. & S. Re-elects Its Officers And Directors

SAVANNAH—(AP)—The Citizens and Southern National Bank reelected general officers and its Board of Directors.

The general officers renamed at the annual meeting here are: William Murphey, Savannah, Chairman of the Board; Mills B. Lane, Jr., Atlanta, President; James Sartor, Atlanta, First Vice President; Hugh W. Fraser, Jr., Atlanta, Vice President and Comptroller.

Officers also were named for the offices of the bank located in various cities.

Edison Stores Report Decrease

Edison Brothers Stores, Inc., has reported consolidated net sales of $8,332,192 for December, compared with $8,727,208 for December, 1948, a decrease of 4.53 percent.

For twelve months ended Dec. 31, sales amounted to $74,160,469 compared with $75,026,770 for 1948, a decrease of 1.15 percent. The company now operates 213 stores, including the Chandler Shoe Store, 172 Peachtree St., as compared with 202 a year ago.

2 Army Contracts Go to Ga., Tenn.

Third Army Headquarters has announced the awarding of two contracts totaling $375,251 to Georgia and Tennessee firms.

A. D. Juilliard Company, of Aragon, was awarded a contract of $213,712 for 500,000 linear yards of cotton duck. Avco Manufacturing Corp., Crosley Division, of Glencliff, Tenn., received a $161,593 contract for 1,964 electric ranges.

Mrs. Della M. Rollins Dies at Residence

Mrs. Della Morris Rollins, 64, of 1310 Hollywood Rd., N. W., died yesterday at her residence.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p. m. today at the Carey Park Baptist Church, the Rev. Glen Hanie and the Rev. J. R. Watson officiating. Burial will be in Hollywood Cemetery.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. G. O. Anderson, of Atlanta, and two sons, R. L. Rollins and R. T. Rollins, both of Atlanta.

Williams Rites Held in Columbus

Funeral services for Wilson Williams, who has been prominent in Georgia business and political circles for several years, were held in Columbus yesterday.

The 56-year-old manufacturer died late Sunday night after a short illness.

A former Atlantan, he was connected with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation here before moving to Columbus four years ago. He was President of the Medley Manufacturing Company, a concern making textile equipment.

Active in many fields of endeavor, Mr. Williams was once a committee chairman on the State Agricultural and Industrial Development Board.

He was active in the Georgia GOP during the recent Presidential campaign, and was considered one of the front rank policy makers in the Southern area.

Mr. Williams was a native of Woodbury.

T. M. Guenther Dies at Home

Theodore M. Guenther, 17, of 574 Shannon Dr., S. W., died yesterday at his residence following a long illness.

5 Injured Here in Auto Accidents

Five persons were injured in automobile accidents in the Atlanta area yesterday. One, a 20-year-old Georgia Tech student, was admitted to a private hospital in serious condition.

Leonidas S. Thompson, Jr., of Macon, was injured as he crossed an alleyway near Tech infirmary. Sgt. Ralph Hulsey and Ptl. H. G. Tuggle said Thompson walked into an automobile driven by Ellis Barlow Keener, a student from St. Petersburg, Fla.

Harry Green, 18, and his sister, Victoria, were injured when the car in which they were riding went out of control on the Marietta Highway, hitting a power pole and plunging down an embankment. The vehicle burned after the crash and electric lights went out over a wide area.

Both of the injured, whose address was listed as 807 Lullawater Rd., were treated at Emory University Hospital.

Cobb County Policemen W. W. Weeks and Loren Austin said Green was thrown from the car. He suffered arm injuries, the officers asid.

Two men were injured when a speeding auto rammed a second machine near Tucker, DeKalb Ptl. Ted Wayne and Tom Gaines said.

Joel Leon Lee, 50, of 783 Confederate Ave., S. E., was treated at Grady Hospital for head injuries, while Curtis S. Williams, 28, of 433 Cherokee Ave., S. E., was treated for a cut over the eye.

Wayne and Gaines said the auto struck a car driven by Paul Peters, Negro, of Tucker, as Peters pulled into the highway from a service station. Williams, listed by police as driver of the car, was booked on charges of operating an automobile under the influence of intoxicants.

James Elmer Hopkins, Barber, Succumbs

James Elmer Hopkins, of 407 North Highland Ave., N. E., died unexpectedly in a private hospital yesterday.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. at the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints. Elder I. G. Derrick will officiate and burial will be in West View Cemetery.

Mr. Hopkins was a native of Campbell, but had lived in Atlanta almost all his life. He was a retired barber and a member of the Masons.

Surviving are his widow; three daughters, Mrs. Pyre Laffitter and Mrs. J. M. Keanum, both of Atlanta, and Mrs. L. C. McKee, of Talahassee, Fla.; three sons, Clayborne Hopkins and Charles E. Hopkins, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Reed D. Hopkins, of Atlanta; two sisters, Mrs. Artie Dickson, of Atlanta, and Miss Della Hopkins, of Union City; a brother, George Hopkins, of Union City, and 11 grandchildren.

Sidney P. Wright Dies at Hospital

Sidney Posey Wright, 80, of 393 Lanier St., N. W., died yesterday at a local hospital.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow at the Providence Baptist Church in Sandy Springs. The Rev. Render Garner will officiate, and burial will be in the churchyard.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Clyde Crane, of Atlanta; three sons, Otis Crane, C. G. Crane and A. L. Crane, of Atlanta, and three brothers, Will, Wright, Bud Wright and Cooney Wright, all of Dawsonville.

Miss Agnes Stein Dies

Miss Agnes Stein, of Riverdale, died yesterday in a local hospital. Funeral services and burial will take place is Osgood, Ind. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Martha Morris and Mrs. Ella Dumas, both of Riverdale.

John L. Daniel, Retired Tech Professor, Dies

John Lawrence Daniel, 67, of 505 Church St., Decatur, former head of the Georgia Tech Chemistry Department and former Dean of the Graduate School, died unexpectedly in a local hospital yesterday.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Mr. Daniel was born in Buckingham County, Va., the son of William and Louisa Daniel. He received his B. A. degree at Hampden-Sydney College and his M.A. from Washington and Lee.

After working in New York for several years, he accepted a position as professor of chemistry at Georgia Tech in 1912. He served as head of the chemistry department from 1940 until the time of his retirement in 1948. During that time he also acted as dean of the Graduate School. Mr. Daniel was a prominent leader in the organization of the Tech University Center. He was also a deacon at the Decatur Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are his widow; two daughters, Mrs. William Monroe Spicer, of Atlanta, and Miss Elizabeth Daniel, of Decatur; a granddaughter, Marilyn Kathleen Spicer and a grandson, W. M. Spicer, Jr., both of Atlanta.

CHANNING COPE'S ALMANAC:

Mobile Unit Tests Soil on the Spot

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 11, 1950

Suggestion of the day: When in trouble, consult your nearest experiment station. It is at work on the farmers' problems and very often has the answer to your problem. It likes to be consulted. The Mountain Station is near Blairsville, the Piedmont Station is near Griffin, the Coastal Plain Station is at Tifton, and the Coastal Station is in McIntosh County. The Soil Conservation Service Station is at Watkinsville.

One of the most helpful services I know is the soil-testing service of the University System. Soil samples are taken by the farmers and sent or taken to the Experiment Station at Griffin or to the College of Agriculture at Athens. The soils are analyzed and the farmer is told what the soils lack in the way of plant food. When the farmer gets this information he knows what to do about it.

Lately the service has been drastically improved. The Griffin station has installed a mobile unit which goes from county to county depending on the time available (they are busy people), and analyze the samples right on the spot. Neighbors bring in their soil samples to the farm selected by the station, and these samples are run at once and the answer given. The farmer then can go on home and get busy overcoming the plant food deficiencies.

This is a far cry from the old days of using about 200 pounds of acid phosphate to the acre on cotton or other row crops and about 75 pounds of nitrate of soda when the crop was approaching maturity. This was completely hit-or-miss. Now the farmer can tell within a very close margin just what his soils need in the way of added fertility.

Recently we were quite concerned about the appearance of our fescue and rye grass. From an examination of former practices we decided the plants needed additional potash. But an examination at the station showed our plants needed more nitrogen. We could easily have wasted time, potash, and effort and still have not corrected the trouble.

There are many things we may do for ourselves on the farm, but there are some things we cannot do with accuracy. We cannot know precisely the needs of our soils. A scientifically-trained man equipped with the necessary apparatus is in position to do this. You and I should take advantage of the opportunity afforded by the stations and the college to learn from time to time just what is required to make our crops do their best. Dr. L. O. Olson at the Griffin Station, or Dr. W. O. Collins at the College of Agriculture, are the men in charge. Both are champions.

As ever,

Channing Cope

New Desmond Show Makes Bow Tonight

By RITA VAN PELT

A new weekly program which premieres on WCON-ABC at 8:55 tonight is the Johnny Desmond Show, a five-minute musical capsule guaranteed to lift sagging spirits, promote faster pulse rate and relieve that battered-down, beat-up and burned-out feeling experienced by most of us at the end of the day.

With the vocal spotlight on Johnny and with the Tony Mottola Trio lending musical support, the program will feature ballads and hit tunes of the day. We think you'll like it.

Bride and Groom

From puppy love to the grand romance . . . that's the story which will be told by a North Carolina couple when they slip their necks into the noose during the WCON-ABC Bride and Groom program at 2:30 this afternoon. They are Eloise V. Knight, of Greensboro, and Jack Martin, of Madison, whose romantic attachment dates from elementary school days.

Dr. Christian

A novel twist is given the back-to-college theme during tonight's Dr. Christian drama when the kindly medic of River's End advises a 50-year-old business man to finish college in his late son's place. It's titled "The Other Road" and features, as usual, Jean Hersholt in the title role and Rosemary De Camp as the nurse-secretary. The time is 8:30 and the station WAGA-CBS.

Sherlock Holmes

There'll be some super sleuthing on the WCON-ABC air waves tonight when Sherlock Holmes (shown here at his favorite occupation of snooping) undertakes to solve one of the most famous crimes on record. Ben

BEN WRIGHT
WCON's "Sherlock Holmes"

Wright plays the title role and Eric Snowdon appears as Watson in the popular Sherlock Holmes series presented at 8:30 each Wednesday night.

Marx Goes Calling

The gags should be ghoulish when Groucho Marx, the master of the quick ad-lib, visits Bing Crosby, the king of candid conversation, during the latter's 9:30 program on WAGA-CBS tonight. Marx, it seems, is attempting to plug a song written by his wife, Kay, and Harry Ruby. It's titled "The Look in Your Eyes."

Meet New 'Gregory'

Martin Gabel, one of Broadway's best-known featured players, has been signed to play the title role in The Casebook of Gregory Hood, heard via WCON-ABC at 9 tonight. The new "Gregory" is well equipped for the part, having played many similar roles and being something of a connoisseur of crime annals in his own right.

Timber Deal

City Land Agent Harry Andrews is doing considerable footwork in an effort to salvage for the municipality about $2,000 worth of timber on the east leg of the North-South expressway. The City has bought a right-of-way through the Atlantic Steel Company properties lying in the path of the project from 16th Street to the Brookwood Station. On it are scores of huge oak and pine trees. Andrews began negotiations to sell the timber but officials of the MacDougald Construction Company, contractors on the stretch, claimed the timber was a part of the consideration for the contract. Andrews appealed to Col. Mose Cox, Engineer-Director of the joint Atlanta-Fulton County Bond Commission and Cox ruled the trees belong to the State Highway Department. Andrews is now attempting to get the State to turn them over to the City for salvage purposes. The only consideration would be moving them from the path of the work. Andrews already has a buyer.

Attends Benning Course

Carl T. Sutherland, City Personnel Director, is attending a special associate course of the Command and General Staff College at Ft. Benning. He will be away until Jan. 21. Sutherland is a brigadier general, commander of the 81st Infantry Division reserves.

Operators of water collection offices at the Peachtree Arcade and Medlock's Pharmacy have notified City Tax Collector Charles Mathews that they will continue to collect bills as usual. The action followed a recommendation Monday night by City Council's Finance Committee that payments for the two offices be discontinued after March 1.

Tin Can Sales

Bids for sale of salvaged tin cans at the City incinerator will be opened by City Council's Purchasing Committee Jan. 30. Stafford W. Graydon, City Health Engineer, and members of the Purchasing Committee are attempting to write a bid proposal which will eliminate controversy over which bid may be most advantageous. When bids were asked last Fall, bidders became engaged in a long controversy and the committee rejected them all. Graydon said the City received $87,000 from tin can sales last year and that if the price of scrap iron continues to rise the figure may be greater this year.

In Hospital

Mrs. Raleigh Drennon, wife of Sixth Ward Alderman Raleigh Drennon, is recovering at Georgia Baptist Hospital from an operation.

Helping Hand

Mayor Hartsfield tried to do a Boy Scout act for Mrs. June G. Burns, of London. Mrs. Burns wrote the Mayor she is attempting to locate her father, Julian Grady Powell, a Georgian whom Mrs. Burns' mother married while he was serving with Canadian forces in World War I. Mrs. Burns said her mother and father were divorced. She said her father was reared on "the Powell plantation" at Pansy, Ga. Efforts to find a post office at Pansy have been futile and Mrs. Burns has asked Hartsfield to help her. She said the father had a brother, William John Powell, and a sister named Maudell, both of Georgia. "I am not writing this in haste," Mrs. Burns' letter said. "I have tried the Salvation Army, the U. S. war records and the (nonexistent) Mayor of Pansy. Perhaps you could, in your humanity, help me."

Housing Hearing Today

A proposal to rezone unused portions of City-owned Lakewood Park properties for construction of 2,000 Negro low rental housing units will be considered at a meeting of the City Planning Commission at 2 p. m. today. The Commission also will hear a proposal to increase the square footage requirement for dwelling units from 625 to 1,000. Another matter to be considered is the possible rezoning of properties at Peachtree and Fifteenth Streets and at the northwest corner of Peachtree and Fourteenth Streets for use by insurance companies.

Health Committee Meet

A new three-year lease for the Westside (Negro) Health Center and a petition to raise poultry inside the Atlanta city limits are major matters facing a called meeting of City Council's Health and Sanitation Committee at 3:30 tomorrow. Councilman T. Wayne Blanchard, Committee Chairman, has convened the session. Dr. James F. Hackney, Health Director, will recommend that the City lease the Westside Center, at 186 Sunset Ave., N. W., for another three years. The City has leased the site for the past five years, but the lease has run out. L. F. Hudson has petitioned for the privilege of raising 200 chickens and 250 turkeys on space in the rear of 779-86 State St., N. W. Under a new ordinance, a special permit is required.

Mayor Holds Conference

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday conferred with George Simons, Parks Manager, and Col. Rex. LeFevre, Assistant City Construction Chief, concerning the paving of ingress and egress streets to the $400,000 Pittman (Negro) Park now under construction. It was decided to pave Windsor and Mary Streets, the work to be completed by Summer. The Mayor also talked over expressway problems with Garland Steele, City Liaison Engineer on Traffic Improvements.

POLICE BLOTTER

By KEELER MCARTNEY

Cabbie Robbed

Eddie Gaither, Negro taxi driver of 377 Chapel St., S. W., yesterday told police he was robbed of $111 and tied to a tree on Simpson Road, by two pistol armed passengers.

The two flagged his cab at Auburn Avenue and Bell Street and asked to be driven out Simpson Road, Gaither related. He said one of them produced a pistol and forced him to drive near the Lincoln Cemetery on Simpson Road. There they rifled his pockets and bound him to a tree.

Dets. Y. H. Allen and J. L. Moseley described the two as about 25 years of age, one short and the other tall.

Treated in Fall

Miss Linda Jean Phillips, of a downtown hotel, yesterday was treated at Grady Hospital for injuries sustained in a fall down restaurant steps on Cain Street, police said.

As Miss Phillips left the restaurant she opened a door leading to the basement instead of opening the door leading to the street, Ptl. C. E. Strickland said.

Brothers Held

Burglary Squad detectives have placed a hold order on two brothers held as robbery suspects. Lt. W. M. Cox said L. D. Kimmons, 29, of a Piedmont Avenue address, and his brother, B. C. Kimmons, 24, of 1935 Newnan Pl., would be questioned in connection with numerous safe burglaries.

The Kimmons brothers, employees of a locksmith shop on Forsyth Street, were taken into custody Saturday after a robbery attempt at a Jones Avenue liquor store. Detectives said L. D. Kimmons was inside the store using a telephone when B. C. Kimmons walked in with a .45-caliber pistol.

B. C. Kimmons discharged this pistol several times, police said, but fortunately no one was injured. He was arrested a few moments later in an allegedly stolen auto at Bankhead Avenue and Hollywood Road.

Burglary Squad detectives have had the Kimmons brothers under surveillance for several months, Cox said.

Keeping Up With Atlanta

Officers' Installation

The Atlanta Chapter, American Business Club, will install new officers at 6 p. m. tomorrow at the Robert Fulton Hotel. The civic group, which sponsors education and rehabilitation of spastic children as its current project, is headed by President Philip T. Howard. Other new officers are: Charles H. Chase, Jr., First Vice President; C. S. Manny, Second Vice President; Claud Kelley, Secretary; W. Ernest Moore, Treasurer, and Roy Garvin, Sergeant at Arms.

Pickett To Get Award

R. N. Pickett, Jr., of Athens, has been awarded a Supreme Council memorial by the Atlanta Council of the Commercial Travelers of America in recognition of 50 years of membership. He is president of the yarn manufacturing company which bears his name in Whitehall.

ever, no important results will develop quickly from activities at this time; it is hard to get people to follow your ideas just now because of the various unrelated planetary positions. Everyone seems to be running along his own track without regard for others and with little idea of co-operation. This will change after a couple of weeks, so save pet plans for later times.

If It's Your Birthday — Forget about the worrying angle in your attitude this year, because things should all come your way without excessive trouble—just a few little relays here and there, particularly around the early part of next Fall. Aside from that, the prospects of new friends, business advancement and possible changes in environment are all favorable to you, still this coming period is almost as good fortune for you, and should certainly not be overlooked in the planning of new ventures—take a chance.

Be delighted or money back. All druggists.

'MOTHERS TO BE' NEED HADACOL

To help bear strong, healthy babies

Expectant mothers may not be aware of it, but they oftentimes have a deficiency of essential B vitamins and minerals — which are so necessary if they want to help bear strong, healthy babies.

Undoubtedly, Nature's plans are to disregard the older life to do the best possible for the new individual coming into the world. In order to maintain normal calcium concentration in the blood, Nature makes so great an effort that it robs bones and teeth for this purpose. This explains the increase in tooth decay during pregnancy, for Nature robs the mother—to feed the child—of not only calcium, but of iron and other valuable elements.

So give your children the right start — take wonder-working HADACOL all through the waiting months. HADACOL relieves morning sickness, upset stomachs, heartburn and constipation when (as so often) these symptoms are due to such deficiencies. HADACOL helps reinforce and nourish body tissues. It contains precious calcium to help keep your teeth sound. HADACOL also has iron to build up red blood to go coursing through your body, bringing new strength and energy which you need at this time.

Buy HADACOL today! You owe it to yourself, your family and the 'little one' coming. Trial size only $1.25 a bottle. Large family or hospital size, $3.50.
